CHIEF NATO DECISIONS

- Invites Russia to participate in foreign ministers' conference on disarmament.
- Accepts U.S. offer for arming Western Europe with ballistic missiles and nuclear warheads.
- Agrees to individual nations making known their final decision on bases at foreign ministers' parley in March.
- Supports independence of Middle East countries.
- Adopts Diefenbaker motion on considering plight of subjugated people in Communist countries striving for freedom.

John D. Happy Over Results Of NATO Talks

LONDON (UP)—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker flew in from Paris today for a two-day visit on his way home from the NATO summit conference.

He arrived to be sworn in by Queen Elizabeth II Friday as a member of the privy council. He will fly home to Ottawa Saturday.

Commenting on the NATO meeting on his arrival at London airport, Mr. Diefenbaker said: "We have opened a door—we have made it clear we want to establish peace and that it cannot be established unless there is a large measure of disarmament both in conventional and nuclear weapons."

Mr. Diefenbaker said he was going home "much happier than I expected I would be when I arrived."

The prime minister said the question of the establishment of American rocket bases in Europe "must be a matter not of compulsion but of decisions made by each of the states concerned."

Russ Talks Needed

"West Germany feels that the establishment of missile bases might be wrongly interpreted by Russia and might be considered provocative," he said. "In general the conclusions arrived at, and the decisions made to date, as covered by the communiqué, indicate that the first matter for consideration is talks with the USSR at foreign ministers level."

"The arranging of those talks will not require the initiative of any one of the nations."

"Canada is always prepared to do anything it can to bring about a movement in the direction of peace, but we consider that the invitation (to the Russians) is clear and distinct."

As to the possibility of negotiations, the communiqué said:

'Should Make War Less Likely—
Peace More Sure'

NATO PARLEY ENDS

Peace Talk With Russia Key Decision

PARIS (CP)—The 15-power Atlantic Treaty summit conference today offered Moscow a foreign ministers' meeting on disarmament and formally accepted the United States' offer of ballistic missiles and nuclear warheads for arming Western Europe.

The heads of government said the Allies cannot accept the Soviet idea that Russia should have a monopoly on nuclear weapons and missiles in Europe pending disarmament.

These key decisions, announced in a 3,500-word communiqué, wound up NATO's four-day conference.

President Eisenhower said the results "should make war less likely, peace more sure."

The final communiqué worked out in a session of almost three hours put the blame on Russia for the need to bring West Europe's defences into the age of push-button warfare.

"To this end NATO had decided to establish stocks of nuclear warheads, which will be readily available for the defence of the alliance in case of need," the communiqué said.

"In view of the present Soviet policies in the field of new weapons the council has also decided that intermediate-range ballistic missiles will have to be put at the disposal of the supreme Allied commander Europe."

Russ Boycott Tactics Deplored

The NATO chiefs said they regret and deplore Russia's tactic of boycotting a newly-created 25-country UN commission on disarmament. They called on Russia to resume co-operation with the United Nations in this field, but offered a foreign ministers meeting to resolve the deadlock.

The summit leaders reminded the Russians that at the summit conference in 1955 they took a solemn commitment that the reunification of Germany by means of free elections shall be carried out in conformity with the national interests of the German people and the interests of European security."

IKE CONFIDENT NATO SUCCESS, FLIES HOME

PARIS (AP)—President Eisenhower flew home to-night from the NATO summit talks, expressing confidence the conference had brought "the idea of peace a little closer."

He will make a broadcast to the U.S. public Monday at 8.30 p.m. EST (5.30 PST).

The White House physician, Maj.-Gen. Howard M. Snyder, said Eisenhower's health at the end of the four-day NATO conference was fine.

Successful Launching For Air Force Missile

CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The U.S. Air Force successfully launched its Thor Intermediate range ballistic missile today.

The huge, snow-white missile left its launching stand at 2.57 p.m. EST (11.59 p.m. PST) in a flash of orange light.

It climbed straight upward for several seconds, then eased gently over into a high-climbing arc toward the southeast.

A minute after takeoff, the weapon began to leave a vapor trail. Its course could be easily followed in the clear sky.

The flame of the rocket was visible for more than two minutes.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

O God of the living and of the dead, this day we remember our loved ones, the saints and heroes and the men and women known and unknown, who fought and died for freedom's cause. Help us to long remember so that what has been won by life sacrificed may be preserved by life dedicated and willing to be sacrificed. Help us to guard our freedom and to keep our liberty and to surrender either; in Christ's name. Amen.

NOTHING SCHEDULED

Earlier this morning, speakers for both sides in the dispute said "no further talks are scheduled at the moment."

Some 6,000 men, including 1,600 on Vancouver Island, have been picketing nine pulp plants since Nov. 14.

Both sides broken silence on the secret talks after the deadlock was reached Wednesday, blaming each other for the stalemate.

"It became evident that the unions wouldn't be prepared to

Chief Justice Gordon Sloan

Will Quit Bench; Province Launches New Woods Policy

By PETER MURRAY

Chief Justice Gordon Sloan has accepted an appointment as adviser to the provincial government on forestry matters.

He will resign as Chief Justice of British Columbia to take the newly-created position Jan. 1.

The appointment is for 10 years, at an annual salary of $50,000.

Announcement was made today by Premier Bennett, who described it as one of the most important he had ever made.

Under terms of an order-in-council passed at a special cabinet meeting today, Chief Justice Sloan will have wide powers.

Although the cabinet will make the final decisions on his recommendations, he will be in a sense the "czar" of the B.C. forest industry.

Empowered to Establish Tribunals

He is empowered to set up a public tribunal to hear representations from interested groups on forestry matters, and advice upon granting of timber rights.

Premier Bennett said the terms of Chief Justice Sloan's appointment "indicate a bold departure from previous forestry practices."

"Forestry is half of our total provincial economy," the premier said.

"Its industry and governing policy require the continuing scrutiny of an independent and competent advisor whose public examination and advice should place governmental administration of our forest resources above and beyond the reach of petty partisan politics, whose impact has at times snarled the

LIBEL CASE RULING MONDAY

VANCOUVER (CP)—

Magistrate Oscar Orr will decide Monday whether defence lawyers in the Sommers conspiracy case can see part of a secret RCMP report.

The magistrate delayed his decision after defence lawyers and city prosecutor Stewart McMorran clashed over the prosecutor's refusal to hand over the report made by former RCMP Inspector W. J. Butler.

He would not elaborate further but it was learned he met with M. J. Foley, chairman of the Pulp and Paper Industrial Relations Board, which is negotiating for the seven companies, and H. E. Hansen, spokesman for the two unions on strike.

Mr. Bennett said he met representatives from both sides late Wednesday afternoon in Victoria at his own request.

forest industry, particularly since 1948 when forest management policies were first introduced.

Mr. Bennett said the province was fortunate in securing the services of Chief Justice Sloan in the new role.

"The government is highly appreciative of the services that have been rendered by the chief justice to this province over the years," the premier said.

"The government appreciates his sense of duty and responsibility in retiring from one of the highest positions in the province to take what we consider to be an equal, if not more important position, to serve the forest workers and industry of the province."

(Two industry spokesmen in Vancouver declined comment until they had studied the announcement. Others could not be reached for comment immediately.)

Appointment of a new chief justice to succeed Chief Justice Sloan will be made by the federal government.

Reputation As Trouble-Shooter

Chief Justice Sloan has also earned a reputation as the province's number one trouble-shooter.

He has been called upon in innumerable occasions to mediate disputes between industry and labor and to find solutions to problems in the provincial economy.

His field has included workers' compensation, fisheries, forestry and other industries.

Three years ago he was appointed by the federal government to mediate a railway-union contract dispute involving 145,000 non-operating employees across the country.

At present he is sitting as a one-man board of reference on the question of bargaining rights for provincial civil servants.

In his latest forestry report, Chief Justice Sloan recommended that the government set up three regional boards on forestry matters, which would forward recommendations to a provincial advisory council.

Chief Justice Sloan said the council should have a permanent salaried chairman at its head, appointed by the government for not less than five years.

JUST HOLDING OUT

"We don't think they wanted a 'settlement,'" retorted John Sherman, vice-president of the pulp and sulphite union. "All we can do now is to hold out."

He declared the union's "modifications" of its 12 per cent increase were not considered by management.

Mr. Blair said the companies were willing to go along with a 7½ per cent raise until June 30, 1958, and then sit down again and negotiate wages for a further 12 months.

Chief Justice Sloan, 59, has been chief justice since 1944.

He was the youngest man to have been appointed to the court of appeal in 1937 and was also the youngest and first native son to be appointed chief justice of the province.

He has held the combined positions of Chief Justice and as Chief Justice of British Columbia longer than any of his predecessors.

NO OTHER PROPOSAL

The unions were asked for any other proposal they had regarding wages beyond June 30, he said, "but they didn't see their way clear to making any suggestions."

Mr. Sherman said management's account of the negotiations were "twisted."

He said management proposed to date any new contract at Jan. 1, 1958.

Mr. Blair said that was true but management had said it was prepared to discuss the question of retroactive pay.

The section on disarmament declared the NATO leadership's desire "preferably within the framework of the United Nations" to promote disarmament negotiations.

Coast Shipping Problem Studied

OTTAWA (CP) — Transport Minister Hees said today his department is negotiating with West Coast shipping companies for provision of passenger service to communities along the British Columbia coast.

This service has been provided by Union Steamship Company of Vancouver but Mr. Hees said continuation of the Steamships, which had received $562,000 annual federal subsidy, to the company would not be justified.

Replying in the Commons to George Hahn (SC, New Westminster) and Thomas Barnett (CCF, Comox-Alberni), Mr. Hees said the situation has been under study for some time as a result of complaints from un-subsidized shipping companies.

Mr. Hees said continuation of the Steamships, which had received $562,000 annual federal subsidy, to the company would not be justified.

Mr. Hees said alternative means to provide shipping service to B.C. coastal communities is being sought and a solution is expected soon.

Union Steamships announced Wednesday it will discontinue its passenger service Jan. 2 because of "increasing losses." The cargo service would be maintained.

'Put Up Or Shut Up',
Martin Tells Tories
(From Times News Services)

Liberal Paul Martin told the Progressive Conservative government Wednesday night, in effect, that it should put up or shut up in coping with Canada's present unemployment situation.

When the Liberals were in power, he said in the House, Conservatives in opposition had plenty of suggestions for taking care of unemployment whenever it arose.

Conservatives had told the Liberal administration that instead of merely providing relief it should be working out schemes by which men and women could be kept at work.

"Give us the opportunity," the Conservatives had said, and "these unfortunate situations will not arise."

With unemployment more than double that of a year ago, Mr. Martin said, it's time the new government started carrying out some of its solutions or admit its members had made in-

25,000 Housing Units Predicted

This construction schedule would provide jobs for 75,000 workers and help ease winter unemployment, he said.

Mr. Green said the government is trying to get houses built quickly to help the jobless find work.

This was part of the plan whereby the government, under the bill, would be authorized to make available an additional $150,000,000 for housing loans. He said a similar sum made available earlier this year has been exhausted in loans for 15,456 housing units. The money is channelled to lending firms through Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

The legislation also would reduce down payments on NHA mortgages by amounts ranging between $400 and $800 on houses in the $10,000 to $15,000 price range.

The bill to amend the National Housing Act was given final reading at the night sitting and sent to the Senate. The government hopes it will be passed in the Upper House in time to be given royal assent and become law later this week.

Most members who took part in the day-long housing debate urged the government to reduce the interest rate on housing loans now a maximum 6 percent.

However, Mr. Green said that if the government were to indicate it is considering such a reduction it might disrupt the building program.

Many prospective home builders might hold off obtaining loans in hopes of a lower rate and this would delay providing jobs for construction workers.

Senate government leader John T. Haig Wednesday accused Liberal members of the Commons of not voting on issues on which they should take a stand.

He said in the Senate that valid arguments while in opposition.

Mr. Martin, former health minister, spoke as the House opened debate on a resolution preliminary to a government bill to broaden federal aid to provinces for unemployment relief.

Up to now the federal government has offered to share provincial relief costs for unemployed exceeding 45 per cent of a province's population. The measure would wipe out this percentage "threshold" and permit federal cost-sharing for all unemployment relief costs.

Public Works Minister Howard Green Wednesday forecast that 25,000 housing units will be built in Canada this winter.

25,000 Housing Units Predicted

This appears to him to be an indication that the Liberal party does not want the Progressive Conservative government defeated at the present time.

"It is a most ridiculous thing to watch what goes on over there," he said, referring to the Commons.

Opposition leader W. Ross Macdonald protested that Senator Haig had insulted and cast a reflection on the House of Commons.

Speaker Mark Drouin ruled that the word "ridiculous" be withdrawn and ordered senators to observe a rule against referring to debates in the lower chamber.

Gerald Loiselle, member of Parliament for Montreal St. Ann, Wednesday made clear to the House he is a straight Liberal.

In his maiden speech Wednesday, Mr. Loiselle referred to himself as "Liberal member" for St. Ann.

This means that Liberal party strength in the Commons now is 106, compared with 113 Progressive Conservatives, 25 CCF, 11 Social Credit and two independents.

Police to Check Motor Boating On Beaver Lake

Saanich police will be asked to clamp down on persons using motor boats on Beaver or Elk Lakes.

Victoria-Saanich Beaches and Parks Committee Wednesday was told of numerous power boats observed on the lake without permit.

The committee and the city of Victoria years ago placed the lakes out of bounds to power boats because it is water supply and a wildfowl preserve.

WARNING SIGNS

Last year a regatta was permitted on July 1 and city council has approved another next May 18 in connection with Victoria Day Celebrations.

But the committee has asked water commissioner, city engineer J. C. Garnett, to post warning signs stating that power boats may only use the lakes with special authority. Saanich police will be advised and asked to take action against offenders.

The committee heard a complaint from Cordova Bay United Church Junior W.A. stating it had been advised a $5 charge is required for picnic reservations in Mount Douglas Park. The writer said it was understood this is a public park, operated on a first-come, first-served basis. What is right? The committee will investigate the matter with the lessee.

Canada Offers Services To Plan New Arms Talks

PARIS (CP) — External affairs Minister Sidney Smith told said Canada will offer her services in trying to arrange new East-West talks with Russia.

He stressed, however, there is no thought of "pushing ourselves forward" to act as an intermediary.

First step in the negotiations would be to try to get the Soviet Union to rejoin the Western Big Three and Canada in discussions on disarmament which were stalled last summer when Russia withdrew from the United Nations disarmament subcommittee.

The Canadian foreign minister gave his impressions of the NATO summit conference—his first big foreign assignment—in an informal chat with reporters.

Discussing the conference generally he said he felt a "nice balance" had been struck between the American desire to give NATO an injection of new military strength and the European Scandinavian impulse for exploring all possible political and diplomatic avenues.

The Huge Deficit

MR. FLEMING, THE MINISTER of finance, was asked recently by newspaper correspondents how his new fiscal arrangements will affect the nation's budget in a full year. He replied that it was too early to talk about such things.

"That," says The Winnipeg Free Press, "is so wrong and deceptive a statement that anyone now alive will be unlucky if he ever again hears anything like it from a minister of the Crown. It means that Mr. Fleming is making tax cuts without reference to the financial period they chiefly affect."

Those strong words are well justified. For obviously Mr. Fleming is trying to hide the real state of the treasury from its owners, the Canadian people, until the Government can win another election.

But it requires no financial genius to see at least some of the effects of Mr. Fleming's budgeting.

When he introduced his minor tax cuts in Parliament a short time ago it was suggested here that the Government had assured a deficit in the next fiscal year. Evidently we underestimated that deficit.

According to Mr. Grant Dexter, dean of the Ottawa press gallery and a journalist with an unequalled reputation for accuracy, the deficit may well exceed half a billion dollars. This is a staggering sum in a budget now standing at about five billions. It is almost equal to the national Government's total expenditure before the last war.

Mr. Fleming will have a surplus of $80 millions in the fiscal year ending March 31 next. That much remains after Mr. Fleming has used up the rest of the surplus of $152 millions bequeathed to him by the former Government.

In the fiscal year beginning April 1 Mr. Fleming must reckon with many additional costs. They include $10 millions for higher civil service salaries and $64 millions for higher old-age and other pensions. At the same time he has reduced taxes for a full year by $178 millions. The increased burden on the next budget is thus $252 millions.

But this is only the beginning of Mr. Fleming's budgetary problem.

His position for the moment is comfortable mainly because he has used on current account $100 millions set aside in reserve funds by the former Government and has postponed $64 millions in public works. Sooner or later these sums must be provided out of revenue.

Then Mr. Fleming must begin next year to pay the cost of national hospital insurance. It will run to about $200 millions a year, at the start, and will increase thereafter. Of this about $50 millions must be paid in the next fiscal year.

The Government has agreed to pay over $30 millions next year in special grants to the Maritime provinces.

Increased federal aid to all the provinces for unemployment relief will cost over $11 millions next year, if unemployment is no worse than the Government anticipates.

Finally, the Government has promised a new fiscal deal to the provinces and while the details have not been arranged yet the cost will run up to something like $300 millions or more.

Adding up these figures, Mr. Dexter foresees a deficit of half a billion — provided the yield from existing taxes does not fall with falling business. In fact, some revenues are falling already.

Probably a deficit was to be anticipated next year, regardless of a change in government. But the deficit now assured is far greater than the electors expected from a Government which promised to balance the budget and reduce expenditures — a government, moreover, which denounced anti-inflation surpluses in boom times and cannot argue now that it is deliberately planning deficits in slack times.

The deficit is not planned, deliberate or based on any economic theory. It is the result solely of last June's reckless Conservative promises and the Government's present determination to win the next election regardless of cost.

The Men Around Ike

MR. JAMES RESTON, HEAD of The New York Times Washington bureau, has made a careful assessment of President Eisenhower's condition, his activities and their relationship to his country's position. Mr. Reston's conclusions are not encouraging.

With sincere regard for the personal welfare of the man in the White House, he writes: "President Eisenhower's reaction to his illness is in some ways more disturbing than the illness itself.

"For his decision has been, not to conserve his energy but to spend it, not to cut down on work, but to pile it on, not to spare himself but, it almost seems, to throw himself away."

The President, says Mr. Reston, has responded as men of action usually respond, "parading his strength and tempting fate."

In terms of propaganda, Mr. Eisenhower's appearance at NATO's Paris meetings has great value. But the United States final position there, according to Mr. Reston, has already been drafted.

"New and vigorous policies and not exhortations, however, are what the Atlantic alliance needs," says Mr. Reston.

To this the New York Times man adds the comment:

"We are in a race with the pace of history. We are in a time when brain power is more important than fire power, but in the last five years, the President has gradually drifted apart from the intellectual opinion of the country, filled up his social hours with bantering locker-room cronies, and denied himself the mental stimulus that is always available to any President.

"It is not too late," says Mr. Reston, "to restore some intellectual vitality to the Government. We are not devoid of active or fertile minds, but they have to be brought here and thrown into the stream of thought at the top of Government."

Though the cabinet is adequate on domestic policy, and is stronger now than a year ago, it is "still woefully inadequate on foreign policy, but these are things that can be corrected if the President, in his own and the nation's interest, will only say the word."

Helping B.C. to Improve

THE ANNUAL REPORT OF THE Department of Extension, University of British Columbia — as good a symbol as any of adult education in this province — marks the coming of age of that branch and calls for some hard thinking.

"Extension" is 21 years old at the university this year. This attainment of majority is marked by striking evidence that vast numbers of British Columbians have also grown up in their appreciation of educational opportunities offered to them.

In 1936 the department had a staff of two. Now it is served by 44, of whom 39 are full-time members. Evening classes alone attracted 4,034 students to 101 courses conducted last year at the university.

The importance of this work can be easily understood. Through the extension division many British Columbia citizens are helped to improve their earning abilities. Others enjoy broader horizons as a result of the education it provides. And still more find profitable and absorbing interests for leisure which might otherwise lead to stagnation.

Lectures and instruction on the campus, field services which carry experts to points where their talents are needed, and other developments in bringing knowledge and instruction to receptive adults make a great contribution to life in this province.

Today, when the problems of leisure are receiving such widespread attention, the department faces an even greater responsibility. It, with other agencies of adult education, can provide in part at least an antidote to that poison which leaves men's minds "to rust unburnished, not to shine in use."

Humane Slaughter

MR. DAVIE FULTON SAYS HE expects to make specific recommendations to the cabinet shortly to assure humane slaughter of farm animals. This is good news.

During recent weeks those organizations which speak "for those who cannot speak for themselves" have been intensifying the campaign to eliminate unnecessary pain and suf-

Unfiled for Reference

THE other day, in a moment of despair, I mentioned here that I had cleaned out my files of the last decade and proposed to sell my empty filing cabinet dirt-cheap. Alas, you never know when the public will actually believe what you say in print. The public will believe anything, even what other people, far less reliable than this column, say in print.

So my reckless offer had hardly been printed for an hour before a charming and eager lady, breathing hard, telephoned me and wanted to buy my filing cabinet. I had to fight her off as best I could while inwardly resolving never again to say anything I didn't mean.

This greatly restricts one's elbowroom, and indeed, leaves little to write about. But I have decided on a bold and desperate experiment—I shall confine myself in print to the strict truth henceforth.

IT is the legitimate practice of politicians, historians, editorial writers, columnists and others who thrive on other people's mistakes to take this record and use it against the men who made it, to dredge up all the old blunders and hold their enemies responsible for every lapse.

That is the purpose of a filing cabinet like mine. A man can make a good living without any ideas of his own provided he has a tin box well filed with other people's errors.

This I shall do in the interests of fair play and in justice to our public servants. For I hold (though it is a wild heresy) that the opinions of the private man are no more reliable than those of the public man, that the statesman is no more foolish than the state, that the politician is no worse than the polity.

FOR example, my filing cabinet, when recently gutted, contained a mass of statesmanlike financial utterances which, in retrospect, are painfully absurd. But how unfair it would be for the owner of any filing cabinet to quote these statements against the statesman now when the owner's private statements, if recorded, would be quite idiotic.

A nation's budget over the years is indeed depressing but suppose a household's budget were neatly printed and filed away how would it look after a decade? Would he care to have those figures published to reveal his deficits and bankruptcy?

Or again, my files contained a thousand predictions of public events to come and nothing of the sort happened. This must discourage the filer and perhaps destroy his faith in statecraft until he looks back on his own private predictions.

If they had all been sedulously recorded on paper, if they could be pronounced now, if any man could be convinced to use my filing cabinet for more harmless purposes. I am filling it with fishing tackle, an old pair of riding boots, some books, faded photographs and memories that no future excavator can decipher.

DENNIS THE MENACE

From Our Files

Dec. 19, 1897 — J. H. Soady, B.A., was last evening appointed to succeed Mr. D. Dallie who resigned from his position on the teaching staff of North Ward School. The salary is $650 per annum.

Dec. 19, 1917 — London: Ten persons were killed and 70 injured in London during last night's air raid. Outside of London five persons were injured. One enemy aeroplane was brought down by gunfire.

Dec. 19, 1937 — Attorney General Wismer plans to go ahead immediately with the establishment of a training unit for young first offenders at Oakalla prison farm. It may be ready for Christmas.

As Our Readers See It

Call It-Yule

The Post Office stamp-cancelling slogan "Put Christ back into Christmas" implies that the present-day Dec. 25 commercialized and hilarious celebration is not Christian.

Last year over the NBC radio network Dr. Maurice N. Eisendrath, president of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations spoke on the subject, "A Rabbi Looks at Christmas," and in part said: "If I were a Christian minister instead of a Jewish teacher, there is nothing that I would, lament so much, and bitterly resent, as this wholesale transformation by myriads of Christians by some Jews and many non-believers in either Judaism or Christianity . . . of such a holy day into so heathen a holiday devoid of the profounder spiritual significance."

As Jesus Christ was born about Oct. 1, B.C. 2, and the early Christians did not celebrate His birthday, it would seem a reasonable solution that those who desire a purely religious observance should celebrate on Oct. 1, prohibiting by legislation any commercialization of that celebration, leaving Dec. 25 as it is, but changing its name to "Yule Day" instead of Christmas Day.

Pie-Throwing

The acid laden crocodile tears of Bruce Hutchison which dripped so freely across the editorial page of the Victoria Daily Times, Dec. 10, over those naughty English newspapers who dared to snigger at the almighty Uncle Sam and his spluttering "Spoonfink" surely warrant a neutralizer before they eat too deeply into the unfortunately all too receptive (and sometimes most gullible) minds of so many North American readers.

If Mr. Hutchison were not the Editor of the Victoria Times—one could be reasonably excused if the thought should persist that the lad was making a sad first attempt at humorous journalism—with a Bible in one hand and a Japanese manufactured Stars and Stripes in the other. (The kick in the pants which he must surely have received during a visit to London's Fleet Street is undoubtedly still bothering him.)

I can recall no parallel denunciation of the American press by Mr. H. when with such hypocritical self-righteousness they joined in unison to blackguard Britain and France during the Suez crisis.

Do you suppose that Britain has so quickly forgotten the attitude of certain naval "manoeuvres" by the American Sixth Fleet in the Eastern Mediterranean—in support of "freedom" of course—when Nasser was "showing the world that he was a big shot."

Surely you do not begrudge the sufferers of "... acute mental malnutrition" a smile, and a democratic chance to throw back the over-ripe egg which the American press heaved across the Atlantic last December. If the mighty American chest has been pounded so often in self-satisfaction of its own superiority that it has now slipped down into its rightful place—and proves to be nothing more than an acute case of "wind" in the abdomen—why should you, Mr. Hutchison, be so embarrassed and patronizingly apologetic to the United States of America?

You raise your hands in pious horror at what you choose to define as the "... obscene headlines of London"—may

I enquire whether the filth which is spewed across every Canadian magazine and newspaper display rack has escaped your eagle-eyed attention, Mr. H? Come now, let us be fair, even your own paper seldom fails to exploit to the very maximum any painful news item from the U.K.; why try to place yourself on a journalistic pedestal with "small town" egotism, which is distorting your sense of values, proportion and individual importance.

Make no mistake, Mr. H.—"old birds are not caught with chaff"—and Britain is one wily old bird that can stand quite a lot of "ribbing" from immature chicks; she is still quite capable of throwing back a custard pie in the face of the clown who owns it.

THE GHOST OF "THE POPULAR PRESS OF LONDON."

Malahat, Malamud, Malatar

A short time ago, I had occasion to drive over the Malahat — not a very pleasant experience any more.

After this trip my car was filthy dirty so I took it in to be washed. After this operation I discovered that all the lower portion of the car was covered in a tar-like substance which could not be removed with an ordinary wash job.

To clean up this mess I had to procure a quart of diesel oil from my service station and then practically wash the lower part of the car with diesel. After leaving this on for twenty to thirty minutes it loosened or dissolved the tar which could then be wiped off quite easily. This, in my mind, is quite a price to pay for just a trip over the Malahat.

Mr. Gagliardi, Minister of Highways, does not appear to be particularly concerned over the condition of the Malahat. I would suggest, now that the wet weather has set in, that Mr. Gagliardi make this trip several times in his own car and then do his own clean-up jobs afterwards. Perhaps this would change his attitude.

However, if this failed, perhaps the poor unfortunate who have to make this trip could gather en masse at the Honorable Minister's residence and invite him to demonstrate his method of assembly line tar removal.

Younger Pioneers

The chairman of the Pioneer Committee of the Greater Victoria Centennial Committee has asked me to point out a slight typographical error in your paper of the 9th instant, which reads:

"... and those who lived here before 1866."

This should of course read "... and those who lived here before 1886."

I would be grateful if you would publish this letter and at the same time state that copies of the questionnaire for those interested in pioneers can be had at the Press Office on Broad Street.

Mr. Nixon, Pro and Con

For Cutting Up in Class

WHENEVER I feel a bit grabby over money—and I sometimes do—I try to find time to reread the second chapter of Jane Austen's "Sense and Sensibility."

It is, I think, one of the best chapters by the "Gentle Jane" who was by no means gentle.

In case you've forgotten "S and S." this chapter is chiefly conversation between Mr. John Dashwood and his wife. Mr. Dashwood has been left a lovely house and a considerable fortune with the request that he should look after his widowed step-mother and three half-sisters.

He thinks of giving the three girls a thousand pounds apiece. His wife dissuades him. When the money is once parted with, she says, it never can return. The girls will marry, she says, and then the money will be gone forever.

Ruth

Mr. John Dashwood, who had the sum of three thousand pounds in his mind for days, and not once repented of his decision, begins to waver. Perhaps it would be better for all parties if the sum of a thousand pounds apiece were diminished one-half. Five hundred pounds would be a prodigious increase to his sisters' fortunes.

For half-sisters, his wife corrects him. Only half-blood. What man on earth would do anything as much for real sisters?

Mr. John Dashwood wavers even more. Perhaps it would be better to forget the sisters and simply help the mother. An anomaly, perhaps. But annuities are risky. The mother might live for 15 years or more, and then they'd be quite taken in.

Besides, your income is not your own, they say, with such perpetual claims upon it. "To be tied down to regular payment of such a sum on every rent day, is by no means desirable; it takes away one's independence."

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Multiple Diverticula

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic, and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

I hate to be devoting so much space to repeated comments on diverticulosis of the colon, but from the large number of requests for information on this subject that pour in, it seems obvious that, of late, thousands of us physicians are being either too alarming about this harmless situation, or are not being clear enough or reassuring enough in what we say. From the letters I get by the dozens, it is obvious that we doctors are leaving people all mixed up about the common and harmless diverticulosis, and the rare and serious diverticulitis. I suspect, also, that we are ordering diets for diverticulosis, which I think is unnecessary and unwise.

During 45 years of looking at X-ray films of people's colons, I have seen so many pouches on the colon. Diverticulitis means an inflammation of some of these pouches. This disease is apparently rare because I haven't seen a case in many years. The trouble can easily be recognized by the coming of severe pain in the left lower quadrant of the abdomen associated with the presence of a tender, sausage-like mass. The person is likely to get constipated, and he may pass a little blood by rectum. Often he has to be operated on.

Many a person gets much worried when the doctor drops the idea that possibly he can get a cancer in a diverticulum. For many years I have studied the world's statistics on this possibility, and the conclusion I am forced to is that the presence of the little pouches tends to protect one from getting cancer. I cannot remember ever having seen at autopsy a colonic cancer that seemed to have arisen in a little pouch. Many people write and ask, "Should I be operated on for diverticulitis?" and my answer is "Most assuredly no." I would as soon be operated on for my gray hair or any other sign of aging. The pouches form when the muscle of the bowel gets somewhat weakened with age.

MISSING HEART BEATS

Thousands of people worry about missing heart beats, but they shouldn't, because so rarely does this happening mean anything serious in the heart. Often the little extra beats seem to be due to the effects of the nerves on the heart. Usually, the electrocardiogram shows no sign of disease in the heart muscle. Many years ago, Sir James Mackenzie, the world's greatest heart specialist, collected statistics which showed that people with missing beats do not come to any bad end because of them. I often say that my own father had them from the time he was 45 until he died of pneumonia at 84. I have kept, back of my desk, Sir James Mackenzie's great book on Heart Disease, with a bookmark at the page with the heading, "Treatment of Missing Beats." All that Sir James wrote there was, "The patient must get used to them." Some persons beg for medicine for them, but the medicine, experts tell me, is more dangerous than the disease.

News Vendor Protests Censorship by Cities

DUNCAN—Clare Brynjolfson, manager of the Green Haven lunch counter and newsstand, maintains censoring of newsstand material, if done at all, should be done by the federal government.

He was replying to Ald. Steve Saunders, who recently brought the matter of obscene literature on local newsstands to the attention of Duncan city council and the general public. In the retail magazine business for 25 years, Mr. Brynjolfson declared:

"If I was going to censor what we sell, I would start with the newspapers."

He said newsstands co-operated by banning crime books in Duncan. Mr. Brynjolfson said he has been led to believe by the remarks of his customers that they would rather do the censoring themselves.

B.C. CIVIL SERVANTS APPLY TO JOIN VLC

B.C. Government Employees' Association, carrying out a decision made earlier this month, applied for affiliation with Victoria Labor Council Wednesday night, effective Jan. 1.

It will be the largest single group in the organization, raising total affiliated membership to 15,000.

VLC Executives In Open Quarrel On Reds' Letter

Victoria Labor Council Wednesday night voted to "receive and throw in the waste-paper basket" a letter from the Labor Progressive Party after an executive split broke out into an open quarrel.

The LPP letter asked VLC support for its criticism of shipyard layoffs and transfer of registry of Canadian National Steamship vessels.

The VLC executive sent the letter before the council meeting with a recommendation that the LPP be informed "the subject matter already has been dealt with by the VLC."

However, delegates were informed that three executive members had gone on record as opposing the recommendation and the row broke out into the open with several council officers arguing whether the letter should have been revealed to the meeting at all.

CREDIT GRABBED

"The Communist party, by its conniving and scheming will attempt to take credit for anything we do if we pass this motion," said Ed Haw. "The LPP-dominated unions have been outlawed by labor organizations and we would be ill-advised to deal with a letter from it."

"I don't agree with the attitude that any letter to the council should be suppressed by the executive," Percy Raymond, framer of the recommendation, replied.

"I don't think anyone here has had more experience with the Communists than I have had. I was president and secretary of the Victoria Trades and Labor Council when we fought

Federal Work Plan Labeled 'Inadequate'

Victoria Labor Council Wednesday branded current and proposed federal projects as "inadequate" in meeting unemployment here.

The term was used when the council voted to turn over a letter from federal Public Works Minister H. C. Green to a special committee for study "and further action."

The minister listed a number of federal projects—such as alterations to the old post office building, maintenance work, electrical conversion of the weathership St. Stephen—in answering a VLC resolution endorsed by Victoria city council calling for a comprehensive public works to overcome unemployment here.

"The letter makes no mention of our original request for a public works program for this area, nothing has been done about it," said Ed Haw, IWA delegate.

"Much of the work mentioned

Labor Council Hears Protest Against Delay in Unemployment Insurance Pay

Announcement of last week's unemployment figures in the Greater Victoria area touched off bitter attacks on "privileged and professional" government and the Unemployment Insurance Commission Wednesday night.

Victoria Labor Council was university graduates forgetting told unemployment hit 4,585 always that they are specialists here last week and the national scene saw a 40 per cent increase in unemployment during November.

"Just so long as we send the privileged and professional to govern us, we are going to have this perennial callous attitude of our respective governments towards labor," cried Frank B. Hilton, IWA delegate.

"We kow-tow at elections to

Labor Could Provide Good Candidates

Reading from a prepared statement which he said had the sanction of his union, Mr. Hilton said the labor ranks could provide "experienced men of general knowledge far more capable of comprising a government acceptable to the public."

"I say let us elect, as our patriotic duty, common men to govern common people for the common welfare."

Lashing out along another tangent, the council voted to send letters to the federal government and the Unemployment Insurance Commission head office demanding that a proper UIC office with full records be established in Victoria.

The move was taken after James Pennock, teamster delegate, said he would not be able to receive unemployment insurance benefits for two weeks because a record of his contributions was kept in Vancouver instead of Victoria.

"I've worked for the same employer here for three years and every week I've paid my $1.20 for unemployment insurance," he said. "Now that I'm out of a job, I've got to wait until after Christmas to get any benefits because the UIC has to send over to Vancouver to get my books."

"I thought we were big enough to run our own business without getting hysterical and I thought that McCarthyism was dead. I supported the recommendation."

James Moffat said the VLC "should not shackle itself in any way to the Communist party. We shouldn't have any truck or trade with them at all."

C. M. Preston said the executive does not have the right to stop any letter from coming before the council. Council has the right to decide for itself what it will do."

Following the angry exchanges, the delegates overwhelmingly passed a motion that the LPP letter be received and "thrown in the waste-paper basket," moved by teamster delegate James Pennock.

A demand for establishment of a three-man liquor commission, including a labor representative, was endorsed Wednesday night by Victoria Labor Council.

The labor group also endorsed a resolution calling for regulations governing music and entertainment in licensed premises.

Both resolutions will be submitted to the provincial cabinet by the Victoria Musicians' Protective Union as a complaint against liquor board policies "absolutely banning" live music in cocktail bars, Donald Partridge said.

The musicians' union vice-president made the statement during an appeal for VLC support in "our efforts to get full-time employment for musicians here."

Teamsters delegate Joseph Reay charged the musicians with being "moonlighters" for taking other employment while playing engagements at night but he was cut off by VLC president, Bob Barrie, for being "off the question before us."

"That's just the point," Mr. Partridge replied. "Musicians have to take diversified work—symphony, radio and television or cocktail bar engagements—but the liquor board is denying

"All we ask is a fair hearing and the only way we believe we can get it is to have a three-man board. It's not just the musicians who are suffering under this one-man control of the liquor board."

OLIVER M. MARTIN

Noted Indian Soldier Dies at 64

TORONTO (CP) — Oliver Milton Martin, first Canadian Indian ever to attain the rank of brigadier in the Canadian Army and the first to sit as an Ontario magistrate, died Wednesday in hospital.

He was 64 and had been ill for several weeks following an operation.

He attained the army rank during the Second World War when he commanded several brigades in British Columbia and later was acting commander of military district No. 2 with headquarters in Toronto. His military service started at 15 as a boy bugler.

In 1945 after his retirement from the army he was appointed magistrate in suburban York County, the first Indian to hold such a judicial appointment in Ontario.

ACTIVE SERVICE

Born on the Six Nations Indian reserve near Brantford, Magistrate Martin was educated on reserve schools before taking to the army as a boy bugler. He served with distinction on active service in both world wars and in the reserve army in the years between.

Twice he was denied funds for higher education but went on to carve a distinguished career in the teaching profession the army and the courts.

In 1913 the reserve's council of chiefs petitioned the federal government to allow use of Indian trust funds to educate him and another young Indian as lawyers. The request was denied.

Again after the First World War he personally petitioned for funds from the same federal trust to finance a university education and in later life recalled the official comment when he was turned down:

"It's no use sending you Indians to school. You only go back to the reserve anyway."

SEVERED TIES

Throughout the years he preferred to be called a Canadian rather than an Indian. Soon after his First World War service he severed connections with the Indian reserve.

Years later in a county court session when he heard a case brought by one neighbor against another for his calling him a foreigner, Magistrate Martin commented:

"You're both foreigners as far as I'm concerned. If the truth were known, I'm the only real Canadian in this court."

SOARING CLUB, CUSTOMS HASSLE

Is What Flies a Plane?

By HUMPHREY DAVY

When is an airplane not an airplane?

The Victoria Soaring Club for over an hour wrangled with customs officials the other day on the question.

Club members were asking customs officials to allow a glider they are planning to get from Seattle to enter Canada duty free.

Under tariff regulations all United States airplanes are allowed to enter the country tax free.

But customs officials shook their heads at the request.

A glider, they said, was not an airplane in their book.

They brought out an Oxford dictionary. It said an airplane was a flying machine driven by a motor.

Club members replied a glider was a "plane" that flew.

The argument got pretty confusing—technical and science books were quoted, but to no avail.

Finally, customs officials said they would permit the entry of the glider under the definition of plywood and bits of metal. This would mean a small tax.

They had almost won the round when John Ford, secretary of the club, arrived with a letter just received from the Minister of Revenue stating he was prepared to admit that "gliders" were airplanes.

The case was closed but customs officials had the last say.

Since the club had proved its case, they said, it must now apply to the Minister of Revenue for a permit to allow its "airplane" to enter the country.

It's Supposed To Be Hockey, Bev

THE SCOREBOARD

BY

Harry Grayson

NEW YORK (NEA)—The principal reason why the Dodgers and Giants hurried to the far west was Walter Francis O'Malley's prospective land grab in Los Angeles. Now that the Chavez Ravine cause celebre must be placed before the voters, owners O'Malley and Horace Stoneham no doubt are wondering why they were in such a rush.

If there is major league baseball gold in California, it must be found in minor league parks, with even bigger parking problems than the Brooklyn and New York clubs had at Ebbets Field and the Polo Grounds.

The Giants, who accommodated 54,000 in Harlem, must spend the first year in San Francisco at Seats Stadium, which seats no more than 18,075.

Unless the Dodgers, who had pews for 32,000 in Flatbush, play in a huge football stadium totally unfit for baseball, they will be confined to the 21,400 seats of the present Wrigley Field for at least two years.

And unless that pay TV talk was considerably more than promises there is the little matter of $700,000 in simulcasting swag which isn't coming.

The new stadium in San Francisco depends entirely upon Charles Leonard Harney. Get-It-Done Harney's health had better stay good. The contractor bankrolling the project had better not change his mind.

No one is prouder of San Francisco than William M. Coffman. No one knows more about showmanship when it is applied to the Golden City. So it should be disquieting news to the Giants when a man of Bill Coffman's experience and knowledge says he will be surprised if they draw more than 800,000 people the first year.

"I don't want to be put in the position of rapping San Francisco," says Coffman in New York in connection with the East-West football game, Dec. 28. "But you ask a question, and I must give you my studied opinion. I can't see the Giants averaging more than 10,000 people a playing date. There are a number of reasons, one of which is that San Francisco is a city of diversified sports interests."

Double-headers will cut the playing dates to about 60, which, if Coffman's prediction holds true, would give the Giants a paid attendance of 600,000, which is what they drew in their poorest years at the Polo Grounds. Even if they do much better, they can't get very far with 18,075 seats.

Summer nights are too cold in San Francisco for night baseball to be important business.

Coffman reports that the San Francisco 49ers will continue to play at Kezar Stadium when the new park is constructed. Kezar also will remain the home of the East-West game, which Coffman built to such an extent that this year it will have contributed a total of $3 million to Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children.

"You don't leave 60,000 seats for 45,000 and a baseball park is no more satisfactory for football than a football stadium is for baseball," concludes Bill Coffman.

So, the Dodgers and Giants are in cramped quarters in California.

And the National League has abandoned the populous East—from Philadelphia north—to horse racing.

No wonder the mutual handle has hit fantastic figures day and night.

WITH STONE AND BROOM

Let's Face It, the Navy's a Big Organization!

One of the largest curling organizations on Vancouver Island—with membership second only to the Victoria Curling Club list—is an honor duly bestowed upon the Royal Canadian Navy Curling Association.

The association, which consists of 56 "regular" rinks, is divided into two divisions. The Sunday night group is made up of shore-based personnel while members of the west coast fleet make up the fleet division, which holds its regular rock-tossing sessions each Tuesday and Thursday.

HMCS Skeena, Fraser, Ontario, St. Therese, Oshawa, Athabaskan and Margaret are represented in the fleet division. As well, an overflow from Sunday night's group has resulted in rinks from HMCS Venture and Naden also joining the fleet ships.

The Sunday night group, with 32 rinks entered, represents Dockyard, FOPC Staff, Fleet Air at Pat Bay, Naden, Malahat, RCN Staff at VMD and Yarrows.

Approximately 20 or more other rinks are available but, because of fleet movements, many of these foursomes are unable to curl regularly with the association.

Three naval rinks skipped by Bert Nelson, Wes Young and Johnny Craig entered the Brier playdowns this year while another Navy quartet, skippered by Lt. W. Hibbert, carried the sailors' colors in the recent Island championship at Nanaimo.

The sailors have just completed their first round of the season. Sunday division winners were Young, cruiser group; CPO Pete Lovric, destroyer group; CPO Don Painton, frigate group, and LS Don Gunderson, sweeper group.

Nelson's foursome topped the field in the fleet's Haida group while CPO McPherson and PO Sers were best in the Huron section. CPO Pilon, in the Skeena group, and PO Yakubisz, tops in the Fraser section, were other winners.

Seniors at the Victoria Curling Club wind up their club championship Friday. Quartets skipped by Clare Anderson and H. Sellars have progressed to the A section final while H. Challenger and Colin Wells have taken their rinks to the B section final. In the consolation bracket, T. Menzies and S. Baker have reached the A final with H. D. Crulshanks and J. J. Rausen moving into the B final. Section winners will play off to determine champions.

The seniors, who curl every Tuesday and Friday afternoon, will open a new draw in January. The Daily Times' prize of $100, which is awarded to any rink scoring an eight-ender

Just a Little Security Was All Bev Wanted

Bentley Sparks Royals To Win Over Cougars

Royals 3, Cougars 1

By DOUG PEDEN

Security is the thing that anchors the foundation of a happy home.

And New Westminster's Western Hockey League castle is a merry place today mainly because Bev Bentley finally knows he's wanted.

Bentley never knew if it was safe to unpack more than a toothbrush and a pair of pyjamas until after Christmas during his two previous campaigns with the Royals.

But this season he felt his goal-tending job was secure from the opening bell, unloaded his bags and proceeded to make the New Westminster mansion a pleasant place to live.

Performing with a new confidence and consistency, the skinny shot-stopper, has sparked the Royals to the top rung of the Coast Division ladder. And he was the big man again at Memorial Arena Wednesday night as the Royals clipped Victoria Cougars 3-1, and climbed three points in front of the runner-up Vancouver Canucks.

Royals called Bentley to replace Dave Gatherum two years ago after losing 12 of their first 13 games. He stayed around for the rest of the season, but never shook the feeling that his bosses were shopping for someone else.

With security came a consistency often lacking in other seasons and the Royals have been the surprise club of the Coast Division.

"It's a great feeling not having to worry about someone taking your job," said Bentley after Wednesday's game. "If I'm playing any better it's because I have more confidence. And I had some luck tonight."

The combination of luck and ability made the difference in the "Shrine Night" game as Royals came through with two third-period goals to keep the Cougars 11 points behind the third-place Seattle Americans.

Poor Marksmanship Also Helped Bev

Several times Bentley made spectacular moves to thwart the Cougars, several times he stopped shots he never saw, and he was helped on a few occasions when the eager Cougars missed the net on close-in chances.

Playing before 2,848 fans, neither club was able to hit its best form in a game which was at times scrambles and at times marked by fast, exciting hockey.

Cougars, getting a noth-er stand-out effort from the Larry Leach—Gordon Wilson—Doug Macauley line, opened on the attack, but Royals came back to dominate play in the latter part of the opening period.

Goalie Emile Francis, who had one of his best nights of the season, turned aside several dangerous shots before Steve Hrymnak gave the Royals the lead with his first goal of the season in the final minute of the period.

Cougars took over in the second session, firing 15 shots at Bentley while Francis was handling only four at the other end. The pressure finally paid off when Carl Kaiser evened the count on a sizzling slap shot at 12:33.

Bentley made the difference as territorial play was about even in the final period. Ron Matthews rapped in what proved to be the winner while Cougar coach Pat Egan was in with teammate Andy Bathgate, who scored a goal, and Montreal's Bernie Boom Boom Geoffrion, who had a goal and two assists.

Other Ranger scorers were Hebenton and Danny Lewicki. Dave Creighton had three assists.

Gene Achtychuk, former Victoria Cougar now with Quebec Aces of the Quebec Hockey League who is replacing Jean Beliveau, out with a rib injury, scored two assists. He was scoreless in three-game trial last year and in his two previous games this season.

Don Marshall and Bert Olmstead scored Montreal's other goals.

TOURING SKIERS

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland (AP)—The Canadian men's national ski team arrived here Tuesday night for two weeks' intensive world championship training. The 11 skiers, coached by Walter Klausing, left their first training headquarters at Kitzbuehl, Austria, for lack of snow. The Canadian women's team is expected to follow later in the week.

It all depends on the New York bout next month between Durelle and Yvon Durelle of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., and New York's Tony Anthony.

Truman Gibson, secretary of the International Boxing Club, said today that if Durelle, a top-ranked contender for Archie Moore's light-heavy crown, beats Anthony he may be matched with Pompey in Montreal in February or March.

Good Future Bout Decided by Draw

CHICAGO (AP)—Either Yolande Pompey of Trinidad or Clarence Hinnant of Miami, who fought a bruising 10-round light heavyweight draw at the Chicago Stadium Tuesday night, is due for a good bout in the near future.

It all depends on the New York bout next month between Durelle and Yvon Durelle of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., and New York's Tony Anthony.

Tuesday night referee Bernie Weissman voted for Pompey 47 points to 46. Judge Lou Caparelli saw Hinnant winning 45. The other judge, Harold Marovitz, called it a 47-47 draw.

It was a hard-punching, grueling match in which clinches were few and the infighting rugged.

Although there were no knockdowns, each fighter joined the other on numerous occasions with vicious sallies. Pompey weighed 166½ to 171½ for Hinnant.

COUGARS MAKE ROOM FOR NEW DEFENCE MAN

Victoria Cougars, who make their next Western Hockey League start against Seattle Americans at Memorial Arena Saturday night, moved today to make room on their roster for defenceman Bud Syverson, acquired from Calgary Stampeders Tuesday.

Cougar manager Colin Kilburn announced this morning that rookie rearguard Warren Back, who has been with the club since the start of the season, playing in 26 games and collecting three assists, has been assigned to Kingston of the Ontario senior amateur league.

The hard-hitting Syverson, who has picked up one goal and three assists in 28 games with the Stamps, arrived in Victoria today.

SO FRASER WILL QUIT

Big Four Desires To Run Own Show

OTTAWA (CP)—The Citizen says Judge Allan Fraser of Ottawa intends to resign as Big Four commissioner.

The newspaper quotes Fraser, appointed at a Big Four meeting in January, 1955, as saying:

All-Blacks Play JBAA Saturday

Cougars make their next start at Memorial Arena Saturday night against the Americans, the club they have to catch to earn a Coast Division playoff berth.

It will be the Cougars' annual "Christmas Party Night" and lucky fans will receive 20 hams and turkeys and 500 bags of candy will be waiting for the younger customers.

TED'S FIELDING MARK TOPS MANTLE'S AVERAGE

CHICAGO (UP)—Ted Williams beat Mickey Mantle again today—in the fielding department, of all places.

Williams wound up the 1957 season of .995 defensive average, committing only one error in 218 total chances, according to official American League fielding averages released today. Mantle had a .979 mark, with seven errors in 337 chances.

Only two regular AL outfielders posted better fielding averages than Williams. They were Charlie Maxwell of Detroit, with a .997 mark, and Al Pilar of Baltimore, with .996.

NHL ROOKIE CROP SLIM

Ranger Netminder Has Inside Track

MONTREAL (BUP)—The rookie crop in the National Hockey League is unusually small this year, but three standouts among them appear to be headed for certain stardom.

The NHL lists nine so-called rookies who are eligible for the Calder Trophy as the league's top first-year men, but three figure to corner a majority of votes in the first-half balloting—Frank Mahovlich of Toronto, Bobby Hull of Chicago and goalie Marcel Paille of New York. Although none are a threat to make the first or second all-star team, they have been stickout performers to date.

Others listed as eligible rookies are centre Phil Goyette of Montreal, wingers Cumby Burton, Tom McCarthy and Don Poile, and defenceman Gordie Strate of Detroit, and defenceman Ian Cushean of Chicago. Cushean played 11 NHL games last year and Goyette in 14 regular season games plus 10 Stanley Cup games, but because of the league ruling which allows a "rookie" to have played up to 20 games, both are still considered rookies.

Hull and Paille are the only two bona fide first-year men. Neither of them had previously played a single minute in the NHL while the other seven had all played at least three games in previous seasons. Both stepped into the lineup cold with little or no fanfare and both were almost immediate hits, particularly Paille.

The Rangers called him in from Providence as an emergency replacement for the injured Gump Worsley and in his first game, Nov. 2, he blanked the Boston Bruins, 5-0. The Rangers dropped only one game in Paille's first 10 outings while winning six and tying three.

The kid from Shawinigan Falls, Que., played so well coach Phil Watson was forced to keep him in the Ranger nets and send Worsley down to Providence.

YOUNGEST IN LEAGUE

Hull, the youngest player in the league at 18, has been a real surprise, mainly because coach Tommy Ivan didn't decide to bring him up until just before the season started. Although he was a standout junior at St. Catharines, Ont., he failed to receive the buildup such as several Detroit rookies and Mahovlich got. In his first 25 games, Hull scored five goals and seven assists and proved he can skate with the best of them.

Mahovlich, a huge 19-year-old youngster of 6-1, 200 pounds, came to the Maple Leafs with more ballyhoo than any rookie since Jean Beliveau of the Canadiens. Last year with the St. Michael's Juniors of Toronto, Mahovlich scored 52 goals and 35 assists while playing centre.

"Come to bet a dollar just to make things interesting?"

Arrows to Tackle Sooke in Feature

Arrow Furniture and Sooke senior "C" men will hold down the feature spot in a Saanich and Suburban Basketball League tripleheader at Brentwood Community Hall Friday night.

Preliminary action will be provided by Brentwood and Sooke juvenile boys, starting at 7, and Brentwood and Sooke pre-midget boys at 8 p.m.

Cubs Sign Rajah

CHICAGO (AP)—Roger Hornsby, rated baseball's greatest right-handed batter, today was signed by the Chicago Cubs as a coach and chief batting instructor.

Hornsby, who reigned seven years as National League batting champion and had a lifetime average of .358, resigned as a youth program director for Mayor Richard Daley to accept the job.

Suspended Hungarians Appeal to Commission

The Canadian Hungarian soccer team, ousted from the Victoria and District Football League Monday night, has filed an appeal to the B.C. Soccer Commission.

Hungarians' expulsion from the league followed a riot at Topaz Avenue Park Sunday during a game against Butler Brothers. Referee Ab Travis was forced to call the game with about 20 minutes of playing time remaining and Butlers leading 2-0.

Hungarian manager John Torjek Wednesday night made known his team's intention of filing an appeal following the players' meeting earlier in the day.

NO RIGHT, HE SAYS

Claiming that all reports on the affair have been one-sided, Hungarians feel that the league does not have the right to act as it did.

The team had been on probation until the first half of the league had been completed. Canadian Hungarian team officials claim that a league meeting was to have been held prior to the end of the second half to consider their status.

This meeting was never held, Torjek said, and that since the game in question was the first of the second-half schedule, Hungarians should be considered as fully qualified league members.

Should the B.C. Soccer Commission decide that the ouster was unwarranted, the local league could find itself in an awkward position.

The majority of the other clubs in the 10-team league apparently have made it known that they prefer to continue without the Hungarian entry. Should the senior body reinstate them, Victoria could find itself faced with a league composed of Canadian Hungarians and, perhaps, one or two other teams.

Officials of Butlers' team stated flatly following Sunday's rhubarb that they would withdraw from the league if the Hungarians were reinstated.

The league has regarded the Sunday affair as a cancelled game. All teams slated to play Hungarians will receive a bye in the last-half schedule.

A meeting between league members, executive, Hungarians and the B.C. Commission is expected to be held soon to try and clear up the matter.

All-American Small Fry Club

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP)—They came up today with an All-American football team which makes the rest of them look like child's play.

This one is, actually. And it has to have 14 members because they couldn't separate the little men from the boys.

It's the annual Pop Warner Kids' All-American team selected from 100,000 small fry football players across the nation.

The team, announced by Yale coach Jordan Oliver as head commissioner of the conferences, includes:

Ends: Mike Burrows, 12, Reseda, Calif.; Joe Yocca, 13, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and Cliff Edwards, 13, Waynesville, N.C.

Tackles: Norm White, 13, Mill Valley, Calif., and Bob Handley, 13, Middlefield, Conn.

Guards: Bill Ryan, 12, Atlanta; Tim Roettger, 12, Torrance, Calif., and Joe Weglarz, 13, Philadelphia.

Centre: Jeff Novinger, 13, Knoxville, Tenn., and Tony Lizza, 12, Hermosa Beach, Calif.

Backs: Charlie Cobb, 12, Daytona Beach, Fla.; L. E. Sawyer, 12, Elizabeth City, N.C.; Alex Theios, 13, San Bernardino, Calif., and John Bolles, 12, Schofield Barracks, Hawaii.

Cobb—a grandson of the immortal Ty Cobb of baseball fame—and Sawyer won co-ranking as the all-American boys of the year on a rating of 97 points out of a possible 100.

Don't think it's an honor easily won. Only 30 points are awarded for football play. Thirty more points can be earned for work at home, in church and on the school campus, with no one eligible for ranking if he has less than a B classroom average. Those with straight A's or an honor roll ranking get 40 points.

Hank's Sleight-of-Hand Couldn't Fool Camera

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Official motion pictures of the 1957 World Series show Henry Aaron, Milwaukee Braves outfielder, as proving the hand is quicker than the eye, if not the camera.

The 45-minute film was premiered here Tuesday before an audience that included the heads of the American and National Leagues. The movie records all the scoring plays of the seven games of the series.

It shows beyond question that in the third game Aaron actually dropped a fly ball that went into the record as a sacrifice fly.

Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees was on third base, Yogi Berra was on second, Gil McDougald was at bat. McDougald flied to Aaron in centre field. The Braves star, who dropped to his knees, caught the ball on the fly but dropped both his glove and the ball to the turf.

The movies show Aaron let the ball dribble off the fingers of his glove onto the grass for an instant before he retrieved it and made it look as though he had made a legitimate catch.

The umpires called it a sacrifice fly, with Mantle scoring from third after the "catch" and Berra holding second.

As it turned out, the controversial play had no bearing on the final outcome of the game, won by the Yankees, 12-3.

The films also showed Enos Slaughter of the Yankees came within a fingertip of catching Del Crandall's home run in the final game of the series.

College Grid Teams Ask for Rule Change

TORONTO (BUP)—College football, which has long taken a back seat to the pros, plans to push for the adoption of unlimited blocking for linemen and one back—a move professional coaches have advocated for several years.

The Intercollegiate Football Union, which embraces the major colleges in Eastern Canada, will submit the resolution to the Canadian Rugby Union, the over-all ruling body of football in Canada, at its annual meeting. Present regulations permit linemen and one back to block 10 yards downfield and the four other backs to block only one yard past the line of scrimmage.

Dalt White, coach of the University of Toronto, said yesterday that the intercollegiate rules committee adopted the resolution calling for the change at a meeting last Nov. 30. White said that if the CRU declines to adopt the rule for all football in Canada, then the intercollegiate body will ask that it be allowed to use the new system itself.

Big Four referee in chief, Cec McFaddin, has recently been urging league officials to allow all backs to be allowed to block 10 yards past the line of scrimmage.

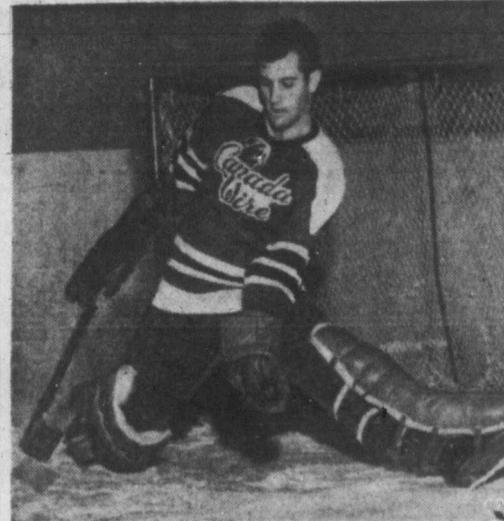

"It's just in the discussion stage now," he said Wednesday, "but we're planning to suggest that the league either let everybody block 10 yards or do away with backfield blocking altogether."

White explained that the college move was designed to "do something to help the officials who have too much to 'watch for now.'

LYLE LeBERE
... plucky goalie.

Youngster Tends Goal Despite Artificial Arm

TORONTO (CP)—One of the pluckiest players in the east end Industrial Hockey League is 17-year-old Lyle LeBere, Canada Wire goalie. LeBere, who has a 2.6 goals-against average in five games, has only one arm, having lost his right arm four inches above the elbow in an industrial accident last April.

LeBere surprised Boyd with his ability to get up after a sprawl without holding the net like most goaltenders. He pushes up with his good arm and one leg.

In the six-team league, Canada Wire is in fifth place. LeBere has allowed 13 goals in five games with a high of four against and a low of one.

LeBere comes from Port Colborne, Ont. At 17, he is the youngest player on the team.

In view of the fact that this could be the final game of the season for the Lions (if they lose) and John Henry lives only a few miles from the sold-out Kezar Stadium, Johnson was asked why he didn't bring all of his luggage.

"Why bother to pack all my stuff?" asked John Henry.

"We'll be going back to Detroit to play Cleveland for the championship next week. So there's plenty of time to pack after that."

If ever the Forty Niners needed a pep talk, John Henry, a former team-mate gave it to them. In fact, it is probable that every time John Henry gets tackled in the game Sunday he'll be asked: "So you're still going back to Detroit?"

Johnson was a stand-out performer with the Forty Niners

Forty-Niners May Heave Barb Back at John Henry

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—For three years before being put on the trading block last winter, John Henry Johnson, one of the nation's great all-around athletes, reportedly he was traded because of extra-curricular activities "unbecoming" to the game. Just what this meant, no one is sure. But there was no denying the lad is a great football player.

The one-time Pittsburgh, Calif., and Calgary Stampeders football star; also a former gridiron standout with the Arizona (Tempe) State and St. Mary's College football teams and now with the Detroit Lions, arrived here for Sunday's pro play-off game with a little satchel containing a change of socks, a couple of extra white shirts and little else.

Johnson says he feels no animosity toward the Forty Niners, but admits that he would like to play "a good game in front of the home-town folks."

STAN TOP MAN

NEW YORK (AP)—Stan

Musial, 37-year-old St. Louis

Cardinal star, has been named sportsman of the year by Sports Illustrated.

John Henry is the leading ground-rushing yardage maker for the Lions this year and against the Forty Niners in Detroit he piled up something like 125 yards. It is probable that Coach Frankie Albert and crew are devising something in the way of a special defence to contain the hard-hitting ball-packer, but that doesn't worry Johnson much.

The verbal ribbing he may get, however, may be something else again.

After hearing "So you're going back to Detroit, eh?" about 40 or 50 times in the game, it is possible that John Henry may be changing his mind about the whole trip.

Funeral on Saturday For Writer, Laborite

Funeral service for Thomas Knight Willis will be held Saturday, at 1:30 p.m. in McCallum Brothers' Funeral Chapel.

A well-known Victoria writer and unionist, Mr. Willis died at his home, 263 Niagara, Wednesday. He was 54.

Rev. Dr. R. McElroy Thompson will officiate at the service.

Mr. Willis was a past president of the Victoria and Island Branch of the Canadian Authors' Association and was former editor of the British Columbia Centennial Anthology.

A prominent labor worker, he was chairman of the Victoria Labor Council's centennial committee at the time of his death.

The VLC observed a minute's silence in remembrance of Mr. Willis at its meeting Wednesday night and donated $10 to the council's drive for $10,000 for an old age pensioners' housing development in his honor.

As the centennial committee chairman, Mr. Willis was the Rose Bowl Likely Home For Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (AP)—President Walter O'Malley said Wednesday night all indications point to Los Angeles opening the 1958 National League baseball season in Pasadena's Rose Bowl.

But he made it plain there still are details to be worked out with the city of Pasadena.

O'Malley held a press conference after a day spent in consultation with Pasadena city manager Don McMillan.

I feel very sure after preliminary talks, ranging from construction problems to other details, that we can arrive at an intelligent basis whereby we can play there—open the 1958 season in the Rose Bowl," the Dodger president said.

O'Malley said negotiations to play in the Memorial Coliseum in Los Angeles had almost from the outset presented problems impossible to solve. He said, that, while there was still time for further discussion, the Coliseum apparently was a dead matter for the Dodgers.

'ALL CHAMPAGNE IN FRANCE EES GUD'

Bubbly Water Argument Rages

PARIS (AP)—A sparkling controversy bubbled over Paris today as to who had the best champagne, President Eisenhower or Queen Elizabeth.

Champagne graced his groaning board on all three occasions.

For the Queen, Coty served Heidsieck 1052, a splendid year, but a slightly sweet wine for some jaded tastes.

Eisenhower got Veuve Clicquot Dry, 1949, at his dinner at his Elysee Palace. He gave a dinner to the Queen and one to the president. He also had Eisenhower to lunch.

Asked which was the best wine, Francois Grandjean, a veteran steward at a Paris restaurant where champagne flows as freely as the Seine, frowned.

"Ze Franche," he said in his best English, "do nod loog at champagne theese way. All champagne in France ees gud."

U.K. Politics Face 'Crisis' In Coming Year

Tories, Labor Must Consolidate Positions for Election in 1959

LONDON (CP)—Britain's two big political parties enter the new year somewhat crestfallen at signs the electorate is browned off with both of them.

Throughout 1957, bye-election results showed a trend against Prime Minister Macmillan's Conservative government, but the Labor opposition had little cause for elation. The "missing" votes went to the Liberal party, too small to be rated a major force in British politics, or were reflected in abstentions.

Has Not 'Put Himself Across'

Much depends on whether Macmillan can muster support among rank-and-file Conservatives to match his prestige in the parliamentary party. Since he succeeded ailing Sir Anthony Eden in January, 1957, the 63-year-old premier has commanded admiration among party politicians for skilful mending of fences after the Suez intervention, but has not "put himself across" in the country.

An opinion poll indicated he is among the least-liked of modern premiers. Labor rules slight favorite to win a country-wide vote but Macmillan, taking his setback philosophically, feels opinion will change.

Perhaps the chief reason for the uneasiness in Conservative ranks has been the sharp rise in prices. The Macmillan administration, accordingly, has made the fight against inflation a priority, and strategists hope that lost Conservative votes will be regained when

Significant Developments

There were significant developments at Labor's annual conference in September. One was the abandonment, temporarily at least, of the old socialist ideal that nationalization is the country's first need. Instead, the conference approved by 5,309,000 votes to 1,276,000 a vaguer plan for "social ownership," involving state acquisition of shares in business firms as an "adjunct" to outright nationalization.

CPA Holiday Flights Overseas Set Record

VANCOUVER — Christmas holiday traffic flying from Vancouver to international destinations is greater than in any previous year in the company's history, Canadian Pacific Airlines reported today.

This weekend a total of 400 passengers will fly via CPA to Honolulu; three extra sections in addition to three regular weekly flights, are now booked to capacity.

The three-times-a-week service to Amsterdam, and twice-weekly service to Mexico City are heavily booked for the next two weeks. However there are still a few seats available.

Dutch-Canadian families who are combining the advantages of CPA's "fly now, pay later" and family plans have been leaving Vancouver via the Polar route for Christmas holidays in Holland at the rate of over 20 per week at an average of two adults and three children per family.

Almost 500 Dutch expatriates will make the 19-hour polar flight by the end of December.

Naval Cadets' Yule Party On Saturday

A Christmas party for members of the R.C.S.C.C. Rainbow will be held Saturday, at 8 p.m., at the corps headquarters.

Last Saturday Navy League Cadet Corps and girl guests filled the upper deck at their own Christmas entertainment.

Traditionally, the youngest cadet present took over command of the ship from its commanding officer, Lt. A. L. Robertson, who gave his uniform to Ordinary Seaman Rodney Rumpel.

Magician Palle Jensen performed a number of tricks and corps officers produced a skit. Each girl present received a gift from under the Christmas tree.

Refreshments were by the women's auxiliary and arrangements were by Lt. J. G. Napper.

Eye Bequeathed To Sightless

BOWMANVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Alexander Mairs, 66, a veteran who lost his right eye in the First World War, was first in line Tuesday to bequeath his good eye to the eye bank sponsored by the Bowmanville branch of the Canadian Legion.

About 50 other Legionnaires bequeathed their eyes to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind Eye Bank of Canada.

With a general election likely within two years—the deadline is 1960—the next 12 months may be crucial in the "unpopularity" contest between Macmillan and Opposition Leader Hugh Gaitskell. Some consider the election campaign is already under way.

the monetary measures, such as the credit squeeze and seven-per-cent bank rates, take full effect.

As a sign of confidence, Macmillan planned to ignore discontent at home and go ahead with a visit to Australia and New Zealand. He will be away five weeks in January and February.

Macmillan's program also calls for a series of personal appearances on television, designed to enhance his appeal among ordinary voters.

Gaitskell, his 51-year-old rival, also has reason to regard the coming year as a critical one. In many ways his position is much stronger, with internal feuds apparently resolved and the party in general agreement on election plans. But he, like Macmillan, seems to have made little personal impact on British voters, and the party has not succeeded in finding a rallying cry capable of kindling enthusiasm throughout the movement.

Gaitskell's position was strengthened by the emergence during the year of a "new" Bevan. Aneurin Bevan, long Gaitskell's principal rival, apparently sealed his new respectability by opposing any one-sided renunciation of the hydrogen bomb, thereby antagonizing his left-wing friends. As a political force, "Bevanism" appeared to be dead and the man who nurtured it seemed headed for the post of foreign secretary in the next Labor government.

Door to Door Petition In Oak Bay on Merger

U.S. MISSILE TEST

Better Off Trying, Failing Says Kefauver

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate missile investigator Estes Kefauver said today the latest test firing of a 1,500-mile Jupiter intermediate range ballistic missile (IRBM) was "good news"—even if not successful.

"We are better off trying and failing," Kefauver said, "than not trying at all."

It was understood the Jupiter shot from the Cape Canaveral, Fla., range Wednesday night was not a total failure, although a full evaluation of the test has not been completed.

The big missile was reported to have been "on course" when it apparently lost power and fell short of its target. Defense experts said technical difficulties were to blame.

The Jaycees hope to obtain signatures of at least 10 per cent of registered voters to support Victoria and Saanich decisions to ask a royal commission.

A door-to-door drive for signatures on petitions for a royal commission on amalgamation, will be launched in Oak Bay this week end by Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce. Similar petitions will be circulated in Esquimalt as early as possible.

They will ask both supporters and opponents of amalgamation to sign the petition. An investigation may bear out the arguments of either side of the controversy.

"In any event, no matter what the royal commission findings may be, it would still be up to the people themselves, at the polls, to decide for or against amalgamation," committee chairman Eric Charman said.

Mr. Charman said a Jaycee meeting Wednesday night indicated about 60 or 70 members would take part in the canvass for names. He was uncertain whether the work would begin Saturday or Monday.

The Jaycees hope to obtain signatures of at least 10 per cent of registered voters to support Victoria and Saanich decisions to ask a royal commission.

MISSION HOME

Victorian Gets New Trade Post

MONTREAL (CP)—Trade Minister Churchill led his 50-man mission back home today and announced a permanent trade mission office will be set up in Ottawa to help stimulate an increased flow of imports from the United Kingdom.

At a press conference at Dorval airport, Mr. Churchill said that the impact of the mission's month-long tour of Britain "exceeded expectations."

"There has been general agreement by mission members and by British businessmen that every effort should be made to continue the mission's work."

Secretary of the new trade body in Ottawa will be Peter Stursberg, 43, of Victoria and Ottawa, a former newspaperman and radio commentator who co-ordinated the mission's publicity in Britain.

... I WANT TO BELONG TO HER'

Chinese, Here 61 Years, Asks for Citizenship Papers

An 83-year-old Chinese who came to Victoria from Hong Kong 61 years ago, has just applied for Canadian citizenship.

His reason: "I like Canada — I want to belong to her."

That was all Lum Duk, a retired vegetable farmer of 258 Fisgard, would say concerning the application he made at Victoria Courthouse.

He arrived here in 1896 aboard the former Canadian Pacific liner Empress of China and since then has made three return trips to Hong Kong to visit his family.

A little man with a youthful complexion, Mr. Lum Duk speaks no English and questions put to him were interpreted by Rev. C. Y. Chow, minister at the Chinese United Church on Fisgard, and Chinese neighbors living in an apartment block above the church.

His answers were cryptic. To what did he attribute his good health?

"No smoke, no drink . . . read Bible every day." (Here Mr. Lum Duk pointed to a huge Bible translated into Chinese characters which stood on a table by his bedside.)

What was Victoria like when he first arrived?

"No Hudson's Bay . . . no cars, no buses, small houses . . . not many people."

Would he like to return to Hong Kong?

"Yes, go back some time to see grandchild and two great-grandchildren. My son, Guy Man, killed in Second World War, fighting with Chinese Army against Japanese. Very good soldier."

A Chinese friend accompanied him when he went to the courthouse to seek Canaadian citizenship and he gave interpreted answers to questions put to him by Judge J. B. Clearhue.

Twenty-two other Victoria residents born abroad have also applied for Canadian citizenship. They are:

Alma Chalecki, Cornelius De Jong, Emil Irvin Dery, Margarete Ruth Dunlop, Gerhard Furstenau, Johann Furstenau, Johann Fitterer, Werner Paul Glueck, Karl Heinz Hartman, Elfriede Anna Hartmann.

Friedrich Johann Lackner, Hermine Lackner, Thorvald Vagn Melby, Jan A. Spoor, Klemme Keith Spoor, Cornelius Ken Spoor, Chang Yuen Hing, Loo Wai Yim, Mah Bing Gong, Mah Gien Choy, Su Men Lai and Chang Poon.

A widower, Mr. Lum Duk lives in a small bed-sitting room on the third floor of the United Church apartments and takes regular walks around the city.

... HERE
With NORMAN CRIBBENS

Three Victoria school teachers—Mary Carr Wright, Margaret Steer and Myrtle Lane—are getting bouquets from far and wide over their newly-published history of British Columbia, "Land of Shining Mountains."

They have had letters from readers all across Canada and a few from the United States as well.

Mrs. Irene Rollin, a Michigan teacher, wrote that she had read passages from the book to her class and "the children loved it."

"My six-year-old grandson seems to like it, too," Mrs. Carr Wright said. "This is encouraging—as we tried to produce a book that would appeal to young and old alike."

Mrs. Carr Wright came to Victoria with her family from Saskatoon in 1939 and one of the things that attracted them out West was a voice—the radio voice of Mr. "Good Evening" Kelly, the Vancouver news broadcaster.

"We heard him every night in Saskatoon over the CBC," Mrs. Carr Wright said, "and there was something so friendly and revealing about his broadcasts we came to think of B.C. as home."

Mr. Good Evening (an old colleague of mine) died in 1947 and hundreds of people who had never seen him attended his funeral.

Maybe B.C. could do with a little more advertising abroad. Today I received a Christmas card from Britain addressed to 721 Linden Avenue, British Columbia.

A postal worker in Vancouver rose to the occasion by scribbling "Try Victoria" across the envelope.

In the States, it seems, we are getting lots of publicity. Returning from California recently, city salesman Harry Mollison counted 15 "Follow the Birds to Victoria" signs on Highways 99 and 101.

"It made me feel good," he said, "and it shows our publicity bureau is on the job."

Vernon Stanley-Jones, visiting here from Duncan, is a little sceptical concerning the "special" arrangements for Answers to correspondents . . . The coat-of-arms over the main entrance to Holyrood House, home of Victoria Scots on McBride Avenue, embodies the Cross of St. Andrew, the Maple Leaf, B.C. Dogwood and Scottish Thistle.

It was designed by William Sutherland, a grand old Scot who came to Victoria 30 years ago, and its purpose (he says) is to show that Scots adapt their national symbols to those of the country they live in. . . .

TOPICS OF THE DAY

A thief who broke into a bakery truck parked near South Park School Wednesday night really took the cake.

Christmas cake, at that—and shortbread, and buns—to a total value of $25.

The loss was reported to city police by Family Bread driver Douglas Bradbury, 647 Niagara, at 10:10 p.m.

General Teamsters' Union, Local 885, was certified Wednesday by the Canada Labor Relations Board as bargaining agent for 23 workers employed here by Hill the Mover (Canada) Ltd.

A party was held today for 26 pupils in the school for retarded children at Spring Ridge. Sponsoring group is Greater Victoria Association for Retarded Children. Registered Nurses' Association made a cash contribution and school board official Dennis Brown arranged the showing of films. The school is operated by the GVRC and is financed by special provincial grants.

A report to Greater Victoria Water Board Wednesday showed present value of present water district equipment to be $168,900. This includes 18 trucks, one car, tractors, cranes, logging arches, compressors and other heavy items of a purchase value of $270,675. Besides that, the GVWB rents trucks, bulldozers and shovels to the extent of $127,000 annually. The board approved a motion to extend its equipment policies with one broker. It was suggested the appointment of a broker be left to the Victoria Real Estate Board.

Dr. Edro Signori of the department of philosophy and psychology, University of British Columbia, addresses the Victoria University Extension Association Jan. 6.

He speaks at 8:15 p.m. on psychology and social problems.

The public is welcome to the lectures in the auditorium at Victoria College.

Ronald Klatt, 3350 Glasgow, was fined $35 and his driver's licence was suspended in city police court today on a charge of careless driving.

A pre-installation caucus of the 1958 Saanich council has been called for Friday by Reeve Arthur Ash. The unprecedent meeting will give councillors an opportunity to express preferences in committee work before the reeve makes actual appointments in his inaugural address Jan. 6.

Further word on progress of negotiations between Woodward Stores Ltd. and the city of Victoria, regarding sale of City Hall, is expected at the first of next week. Mayor Percy Scurrall said until then all he could say was "negotiations are still underway."

A Christmas Festival of Highland dancing and piping will be presented by Adelaide Duncan at the Club Sirocco Saturday at 2 p.m.

Judges for the dancing events will be Mrs. Helen Somers, Mrs. Marion Dewar, and Mrs. Lillian Wood. Piping events judge will be Archie Dewar.

Aggregate trophies for the events have been donated by Mrs. Edward Conrad, Miss Heather Duncan, Tom Hamilton, Alex Johnstone, and John Grant.

Official pipers will be Ray Gandy and Jamie Troy.

Last city council meeting of 1957 will be held Dec. 30, Mayor Percy Scurrall announced today. Final reading will be given to the new pound-by-law which turns operation of the pound over to the SPCA. Also council is required by the Municipal Act, to carry out whatever adjustments are necessary in the '57 budget to ensure against deficits in any department.

Space to Vancouver via Nanaimo is also available on both CPR and Black Ball lines.

Vancouver Island Coach Lines will provide extra coaches when necessary on all up-island runs, including the through coaches, Victoria-Nanaimo-Vancouver.

Christmas travel will be "normally heavy" this year, despite the mid-week holiday.

"We discovered a method of operation by which both rooms could be used, the coffee shop for breakfast and luncheon and the dining room for dinner," he said.

But there will not be the concentrated rush off Vancouver Island as there is when the holiday falls at the beginning or end of a week.

A TCA spokesman said: "We expect we will carry as many people as last year, but they will be spread out over a longer period.

Extra flights to Vancouver and Seattle will be scheduled as needed. At the present time, there is still space available on all days, with heaviest bookings for Dec. 24."

The CPR also reported Dec. 24 as the busiest day for the Victoria-Vancouver steamer, the CPR.

Penny Won't Sympathize When Hostess Complains

By PENNY SAVER

There's a story going the rounds that several Victoria hostesses have said they can't keep enough glasses on hand for impromptu holiday parties. If the rumor is correct then Penny doesn't sympathize. Oh, no! Because she knows that if these hostesses made a quick trip to the shop she browsed in today, they will find cases and cases of festive-looking glasses.

The price? Don't gasp . . . you can have eight glasses for $1.95.

Here's something a little different, if not completely original! It's a pair of wooden and copper handles that can be pulled and stretched over a casserole or vegetable dish so the busy hostess won't burn her fingers. Saves any fear of dropping the tasty dish, too! This wonderful gadget is so amazing, I can't really describe it! You'll have to see it for yourselves! It's priced at $2.25.

Another modern device for serving is a pair of plastic salad servers. They are inseparable in that they are joined together and pick food up by a spring action. Each pair comes in various gay colors at 35 cents.

If you want to be a giver with sense as well as generosity, then make it a set of kitchen tools. For the price of $3.75 you can buy a complete set that would be received with joy by the new bride or housewife.

In the box there is a spatula, vegetable spoon, straining spoon, egg lifter, meat lifter, a tea strainer and a long fork. A wonderful buy and a useful one!

So you want the food at your cocktail party to be a little different. Pretty expensive if you go in for caviar and such! Why not use the old tidbits with a new idea? Get a cheese cutter that slices the cheese into wavy patterns. A cute idea for only 23 cents.

Be the most modern hostess in town with a few of these gadgets . . . they all save time too!

Phone me at 2-3131 and I'll tell you where I went browsing today!

A favorite holiday confection is made with ground dried fruits and nuts. Light or dark raisins, dried apricots, prunes and walnuts make a good combination. Pack into oiled pan and cut in squares, or roll into balls.

Send 35 cents (coins) for this pattern (stamps cannot be accepted) to The Times, Household Arts Dept., 60 Front St. W., Toronto 1-A, Ont. Print plainly name, address, pattern number.

Send 25 cents more for a copy of our Alice Brooks Needcraft Catalogue. Two complete patterns are printed right in the book . . . plus a variety of designs that you will want to order: crochet, knitting, embroidery, huck weaving, quilts, toys, dolls.

GOLDEN WEDDING ON CHRISTMAS EVE

A family reunion this Christmas will hold special meaning for Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Harrison, 3029 Cedar Hill Road. Their five daughters and their families will help them celebrate their golden wedding anniversary on Christmas Eve, with an "open house" at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hovan, 2963 Cedar Hill Road, from 2 to 4 p.m. Mr. and Mrs. Harrison were married in Frank, Alta., in 1907, moving to Rossland, B.C., in 1911. They have lived in Victoria since 1944. Mr. Harrison, a veteran of the First World War, was with the 12th Battalion. The couple's five daughters are Mrs. Florence Hovan, Victoria; Mrs. Irene Anderberg, Vancouver; Mrs. May Dickinson, Penticton; Mrs. Helen Underwood, Kinnaird, B.C., and Mrs. Joan Fourt, Williams Lake, B.C. Mr. and Mrs. Harrison have 14 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

TODAY'S RECIPE

BETHLEHEM FRUITCAKE

Makes About 5 1/4 Pounds Cake

Two cups light raisins, 2 cups dark raisins, 2 cups walnuts, 1 cup blanched almonds, 1 1/2 cups butter or margarine, 1 1/2 cups sugar, 6 eggs, 3 1/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon cloves, 3 teaspoons cinnamon, 1 1/2 cups finely cut citron, 1/2 cup diced candied orange peel, 1/2 cup thoroughly drained, crushed pineapple, 2 teaspoons vanilla, 1/4 teaspoon almond extract.

Rinse raisins, drain, and dry thoroughly. Chop walnuts and almonds. Cream butter, add sugar and cream thoroughly.

Blend in beaten eggs. Sift flour with salt, soda, and spices; add to creamed mixture, blending well. Stir in raisins, nuts, eitron, peel, pineapple and flavorings. Place in a greased paper-lined 9-inch tube pan. Bake in a slow oven (300 degrees F.) about 3 1/4 hours. Test with cake tester or pick before removing from oven.

Canned fruit cocktail folded into red or green gelatin and chilled in star or Christmas tree molds delights children at holiday time.

LOUISE DAVIS

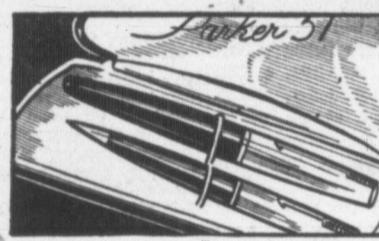

On Etiquette

Q.—At a party the other evening, a friend admonished me after hearing me say "thank you" to the maid for assisting in putting on my wrap when it was time to leave. This friend said she was telling me for my own good, for one should never say thank you to a servant. This troubles me, for I instinctively say thank you to anyone who does something for me, and I don't know why servants should be excluded. Is there such a rule?

Louise Davis answers:

If there is such a rule, Louise Davis where in this world, I have never heard of it. So my answer is definitely and emphatically NO. I can't possibly figure out why one would think it wrong or incorrect to thank anyone for a kind, thoughtful gesture or deed. However, it's almost as bad to say thank you in a patronizing way, for it is without much meaning if it lacks sincerity. Servants are employees and, like us all, they are human. Being people, they have been taught the same Golden Rule. Sometimes I think that they are more aristocratic than many of those who profess to be. Your group that worked on the project were, from left, Mrs. E. Bray, Mrs. N. Buxton, Mrs. B. Grieves, president, and Mrs. S. Lawson.

NEW LOOK FOR OLD TOYS

Santa's Helpers Glamorize Dolls By the Hundred in Home Workshop

By JUDY NICHOLSON

A life-size doll house isn't a very common thing but when I visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Buxton on Bushy Street I actually did find a house full of dolls.

What would anyone want with hundreds of dolls, you ask?

Well, there's a story behind it.

Mrs. Buxton is a member of the Cosmo-Pals, a woman's auxiliary to the service organization, Cosmopolitan International.

As part of its Christmas service this group decided to do something about reconstructing dolls and toys to be given to children of less fortunate families in the city on Christmas day.

The Buxtons volunteered to open their home for this work.

To get a start the group placed an advertisement in the local newspapers several months ago, asking for donations of toys.

"Before we could turn around, the house was full of broken and grimy toys and dolls," Mrs. Buxton says with a wry smile.

Many nights of work followed as the 15 members of the Cosmo-Pals set to work to wash, glue, paint and sew.

Dolls' dresses were cleaned, mended and sorted into correct sizes.

A miniature beauty parlor was opened in the Buxton living room where matted this task may have been long and tedious but as one of the Cosmo-pal members says, "We'll be able to enjoy our Christmas far more this year because we know that a great many other children will be happy as our own."

Members of the Cosmo-pals group includes Mrs. E. Bray, Mrs. P. Bridges, Mrs. E. Fraser, Mrs. B. Grieves, Mrs. B. Lamb, Mrs. S. Lawson, Mrs. B. McEachern, Mrs. E. Massey, Mrs. P. Neal, Mrs. O. Rose, Mrs. D. Salter, Mrs. H. Simpson, Mrs. B. Storkey, Mrs. V. Bradley and Mrs. Buxton.

Now they have been moved to a large room in the Vancouver Island Coach Lines on Courtney Street, where they will be sorted and eventually distributed among under-privileged children.

Girls Must Prepare for Career Life

WASHINGTON — If your mind wanders in class, girls, just make sure you're day-dreaming about landing a good job instead of a man.

Miss Hazel Palmer, president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, believes that in the future more and more women are going to have to go to work. And a lot of these gals will be married, too.

That's why she warns co-eds: "Don't use college as a marking-time period to the altar." Instead, she urges college girls to take courses that will train them to hold down a definite job.

Miss Palmer believes a girl should start planning for a secure future long before ever setting foot on a campus. "By all means," the BPW president declares, "a high school girl should see that she educates herself for her future existence and progress."

Tablewear Doubles for Decorations

Let your tableware add to the holiday atmosphere by using it in clever and easy-to-make Christmas decorations. Patterns and shapes suggest specific arrangements.

For example: a provincial weather vane motif on an inexpensive, new, dinnerware can be paired on a holiday table with a wooden "tree" hung with fruit and cookies in the Scandinavian tradition.

The tree is made of four dowels of graduated length. Run dowels through holes drilled in a slender centre post that is nailed to a wood base.

It may be painted red or white. Oranges and apples are stuck on ends of the dowels and cookies are tied to the "branches" with ribbons (bake or buy cookies with holes in them). The dinnerware's weather vane pattern is in shades of ochre, bronze and black against white.

It shows up well with a white tree against a dark green cloth. This type of setting is adaptable to other provincial patterns or to use with plain, white, contemporary dinnerware.

For something novel, pile modern, square and triangular-shaped colored or ornaments in contemporary bowls or long, boat-shaped planters. It's a variation on the standard use of conventional glass ornaments for this purpose.

With the traditional silverplate hollowware shined up for the holiday parties, take advantage of its sparkle for off-duty use in decorations.

A silver platter with a wood well and tree-carving block can double as the base for a gleaming Christmas plaque set on a buffet or console table. Long-needed greens, lightly sprayed with "snow," form a graceful little tree when boughs are taped along the grooves of the tree-patterned block.

Make a base from a flat, red-wrapped box; add a few silvery ornaments and prop against the wall on a braided mat, or use it horizontally as a table centrepiece.

A silvery sugar bowl can be made to serve as a miniature vase for sprays of greenery on desk or bookcase, or it can be filled with striped candy canes. Put a toy Santa Claus nearby to stand guard.

The weighted sugar bowl cover doubles as an elegant paper-weight for just-arrived Christmas cards. When not needed for tea or coffee service, put the silver-plated cream pitcher to work as a cigarette holder. A plastic flower holder inside the pitcher will support the cigarettes.

Hazel Palmer

Miss Palmer strongly recommends that if a girl is unable to attend college, she should get some kind of job training while going to high school.

Miss Palmer points to the nation's booming economy as a strong indication of the future needs for more womanpower. For example, she cites the increased number of homes mushrooming across the country. As more houses are built, more goods will be needed to furnish them.

In order to meet this demand for household furnishings and appliances, she says more women probably will have to join the labor force to manufacture and help buy them.

She joined BPW in 1935. And she explains that a family with several children will be especially affected by the high standard of living.

"In due time," Miss Palmer says, "the woman in that home will have to go to work to help make enough money to give each child the advantages of life a woman wants her children to have. This includes a college education."

When it comes to work, the top BPW official can do a lot more than make predictions or give advice. Miss Palmer daily sets an example of female initiative and activity that would amaze the most energetic corporation president.

Being president of the BPW requires her to represent the 170,000-woman organization at important national conventions and conferences throughout the United States.

Last year she attended more than 150 meetings. And in one week she was on hand for six events, all of them in different states.

When trying to meet a heavily booked schedule, Miss Palmer reveals that she never has time to sit down and relax. "I just keep moving," she says.

In addition to her time-consuming work with BPW, Miss Palmer is a practicing attorney in Sedalia, Mo., and a member of several legal organizations.

She joined BPW in 1935. And except for the first few months of her membership, she has always held some kind of office in the large organization. She became national president last year.

"In due time," Miss Palmer says, "the woman in that home will have to go to work to help make enough money to give each child the advantages of life a woman wants her children to have. This includes a college education."

When it comes to work, the top BPW official can do a lot more than make predictions or give advice. Miss Palmer daily sets an example of female initiative and activity that would amaze the most energetic corporation president.

Being president of the BPW requires her to represent the 170,000-woman organization at important national conventions and conferences throughout the United States.

Last year she attended more than 150 meetings. And in one week she was on hand for six events, all of them in different states.

When trying to meet a heavily booked schedule, Miss Palmer reveals that she never has time to sit down and relax. "I just keep moving," she says.

In addition to her time-consuming work with BPW, Miss Palmer is a practicing attorney in Sedalia, Mo., and a member of several legal organizations.

She joined BPW in 1935. And except for the first few months of her membership, she has always held some kind of office in the large organization. She became national president last year.

In order to meet this demand for household furnishings and appliances, she says more women probably will have to join the labor force to manufacture and help buy them.

She joined BPW in 1935. And she explains that a family with several children will be especially affected by the high standard of living.

BUILT FOR CURVES—This strange-looking vehicle is the experimental prototype of a new "pendular" passenger carriage being tested in Paris by the French National Railways. Officials claim that the self-tilting car can whip around curves at 80 miles an hour without spilling food in the diner or affecting riders with sensitive stomachs. The 32-passenger model, which weighs 37 tons, tilts automatically to exactly offset the centrifugal force that would normally throw passengers toward the outside of the curve.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The young reader who makes the best guess to the second question a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to John M. Siddoway, aged 12, of Bountiful, Utah, for his question:

How Does Yeast Make Bread Rise?

Bread without yeast is rather at a terrific rate. This is one like a white mud pie. It is trick they use to make our solid, heavy and not easy to bread rise. A mushroom multi-digest. It is yeast that turns piles of the dough into soft, spongy black, powdery spores. One our loaves. Yeast also adds fragrance of a trillion of these black dots rance and flavor and makes the may land in a fertile spot and bread easy to digest. Bakers survive. A yeast cell multiplies have used yeast to make dough by budding. When conditions since the dawn of history. But the little yeasts that do this magic were not discovered until after the microscope was invented.

A single yeast is too small for our eyes alone to see. The microscope shows it to be shaped like a little sausage. It takes about 25,000 of them to measure one inch. Each of the little sausages is a one-celled plant. Yeast is a member of the fungus plant family. This makes it the midget cousin of the mushroom, the toadstool and the great puffball.

The small yeast has several advantages over its larger cousins. One is that it can multiply long as the food supply lasts.

Cells Give Off Gas Bubbles

In feeding, the yeast converts the sugar into alcohol and carbon dioxide gas. This chemical change goes on in the warm, moist bread dough, for yeast has been thoroughly mixed with the flour and water. As they feed, the little yeast cells give off bubbles of carbon dioxide gas. These bubbles form tiny gas chambers in the sticky dough. The dough is left in a warm place to rise.

More and more tiny gas chambers are formed. They puff up the bread dough and make it rise. It becomes a swollen sponge, a mixture of dough and gassy pockets of carbon dioxide.

The baker knows just when the bread dough has swollen to the right size. He puts his loaves into a hot oven to bake. The heat is too much for the busy yeast cells. They stop feeding and growing. In fact, they are baked alive. They add a fragrant yeasty smell to the bread. Also, yeast is very nourishing.

The alcohol formed by the yeast evaporates and disappears in the heat of the oven. The little pockets of gas remain as the dough dries and sets around them. When "baked," the dough is tender and spongy, good to taste and full of nourishment.

Andy sends a Hammond's Ambassador World Atlas to George Moore, Jr., age 16, of Cleveland, Ohio, for his question:

Is Space Different From Atmosphere?

The atmosphere is the earth's air. It reaches several hundred miles above our heads, getting thinner all the way. Finally it peters out altogether. At this point space begins. Space is the empty nothingness between the planets, between us and the sun, between the sun and billions of other stars.

To us, the air seems like empty space. Actually it is filled with teeming particles of gas. True, they are too small for us to see. But they affect a plane, a meteor or anything

PLEASURE AFLOAT

One in 22 Owns Boat in Canada

By DON INGHAM

Pleasure boating left quite a wake during 1957. At present one out of every 22 Canadians owns a boat, putting boating near the top of the list of participating sports.

The sport looks even stronger when it is considered that during each year one out of every 20 Canadians enjoys a boat ride at least once, whether it be for fishing, sailing or cruising.

Between Canada and the United States, pleasure boaters spent more than two billion dollars during the year. About $430,000,000 of this total went for the purchase of 660,000 outboard motors — 51 per cent of them over 12 horsepower — 350,000 new boats and 180,000 new trailers. It appears that every second boat bought would be trailer-borne.

Talk of outboards might lead one to think the "tag and stick" sailors were falling off, but figures prove otherwise.

GRAND SPORT

New materials, more available water and new clubs are attracting thousands to the grand sport of sailing, and in 1957 sailmakers in the two countries used 8,000,000 square feet of sailcloth. Three-quarters of the total was of Dacron, the long-lasting, non-mildewning, tough and rugged synthetic.

Synthetics are making great strides in hull construction, and aluminum is giving traditional materials a good run for the big money. But wood is not a thing of the past yet. This year 165,000,000 square feet of plywood went into boats — a gain of 18 per cent over the total of last year.

Unfortunately, increased participation means increased regulation, and here in Canada the transport department and Canadian Boating Federation have agreed on a formula to set the power and load an outboard motorboat can carry safely.

This information will be available to courts deciding cases involving negligent or careless motorboat operations to help determine whether boats were overloaded or overpowered.

Tests to determine the right, each parent produces a daughter bud in one hour. An hour later, both mother and daughter have budded a new daughter. In another hour, these four are parents. In three hours, under the right conditions, one yeast cell multiplies to eight.

In breadmaking, we give the yeast these right conditions. There is food, moisture and a warm temperature. The food is sugar, some present in the wheat flour and some added to the dough. The hungry little yeast cells devour this at a great rate. And feeding goes on day and night without rest, so long as the food supply lasts.

For about 100 Victorians have booked passages.

A gala welcome for the Leilani is now being organized by Victoria Chamber of Commerce tourist trade group under the leadership of chairman Sam Lane.

"We plan to have a leading pipe band and the Victoria Girls' Drill Team down at the dock with civic and government officials," Mr. Lane said, "and the celebrations will continue during the Leilani's three-hour visit to our city.

"Some of our Chamber members will impersonate the Victoria characters we have made famous on our goodwill tours, including Colonel Blimp, Miss Lovelace, Miss Tweedie, Miss Lavender and Bobby Hatt."

Victoria baritone John Dunbar will sing appropriate solos through a loudspeaker system marking the arrival and departure of the Leilani.

"Century Sam" — a symbol of B.C.'s centennial celebrations — will go on board with civic, government and Chamber of commerce officials.

"At present we plan to have the Victoria Girls' Drill Team distribute hundreds of streamers among the passengers," Mr. Lane said, "and these will be thrown ashore as the ship departs."

The Leilani is due to arrive at Honolulu Jan. 24 and will leave the same night on her voyage back to San Francisco.

"Many Victoria passengers are planning to fly back from Honolulu," a local travel agent said.

N.Y. Concert Debut For Winnipeg Pianist

TORONTO (CP) — Winnipeg pianist Sheila Henig will make her New York debut on December 21, the Royal Conservatory of Music announced Wednesday.

Miss Henig will share the program at Steinway Concert Hall with United States tenor Grant Williams.

She will perform Mozart's Sonata in A Minor, Pavlo's Ondine and Liszt's Funeralies. Miss Henig won nine major awards while studying with the conservatory. She later performed as soloist with the symphony orchestras of Toronto, Halifax and the CBC.

She reached the finals of the

JUST IN TIME FOR CHRISTMAS FESTIVITIES

All five children of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Durham of Detroit had their tonsils removed at Detroit Memorial Hospital. Putting them through their pre-

LOVELY CHRISTMAS MUSIC

'Carols in Candlelight' At First United Church

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

Some of the loveliest music that has ever sprung from the fountainhead of faith embodied in the Nativity of Christ, was played and sung Wednesday night in the dedicated, candlelit atmosphere of First United Church.

It was music that represented Christian feeling among many different peoples — German, English, Spanish, Italian, Indian, Negro.

"Carols in the Candlelight" was presented for the tenth successive year by First United Church Choir, directed by Mr. and Mrs. Roberto Wood, fine group of soloists and harpist Lorna Langley.

The program which was accompanied by Malcolm Hamilton at the organ was finely balanced and contained striking contrasts in expression of a single theme.

Glory and grandeur of Handel's "Comfort Ye" and the "Glory of the Lord," "He Shall Feed His Flock," and "For Unto Us a Child Is Born," sung by soloists Paul Wharf and Carol Menzies and the choir, were poised for instance against the humble, homespun charm of an Appalachian carol sung by baritone David Mar.

There was the deep emotionalism and sincerity of true spirituals and the more sophisticated art song like Michael Head's "The Little Road to Bethlehem"; this latter sweetly sung by Beverley Glenday.

Alice Waddell, Allan Husband and Beverley Dougan were soloists in individual numbers as well as in Gustav Holst's appealing arrangement of old carols which he has titled "Christmas Day."

In this work the familiar and the unfamiliar flow beautifully along, providing contrast and color like a rich old tapestry in sound.

Lorna Langley's guest appearance provided a delightful highlight with its complete change of tone texture in delicate golden notes.

She is an accomplished harpist and her own arrangement of traditional Christmas carols exhibited a fine taste.

As has always been the case, a capacity audience attended this favorite annual event.

Last Rites For Judge

VANCOUVER (CP) — Bench and bar paid tribute Wednesday to Judge Bruce Boyd, senior county court judge, who died Tuesday night following a heart attack.

Chief Justice Sherwood Lett said it was with "deep regret" he heard of Judge Boyd's death.

"He will be missed and particularly by the younger members of the bar to whom he was always of great assistance throughout his years on the bench."

T. G. Norris, treasurer of the B.C. Law Society, said "those of us who knew him in the First World War remember him as a gay and gallant comrade and a happy warrior."

Funeral service will be held Friday at 2.30 p.m. in St. Paul's Church, Rev. J. A. G. Wilson officiating. Cremation will follow.

Hit-Run Record

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police said today Vancouver has set a record for hit-and-run accidents, with 248 such incidents in the last 48 days. One person has been killed and 27 persons have been severely injured in these incidents. City police recently started a new drive against drunken motorists.

Output of the mine will be reduced 40 per cent when all 200 men have been discharged. Mr. Bennett said the layoffs were agreed on to save the jobs of another 500 employees.

Earlier, the union reported its members agreed to the proposal to keep the mine open on a limited basis.

WRITE ON WINDOW

Bowcott got out of the car and wrote the word "bullet" on the outside window of the cafe in sight of Cons. Heagle, and got back in the car.

Carlow then came to the door of the cafe and beckoned to the officer to come outside.

"What did you tell those lousy bulls across the street?" he asked the constable, who replied it was none of his concern.

The two assaulted Cons. Heagle and in the ensuing fracas two large windows and a counter top were smashed.

Both men ran away, one was caught that night and the other the next day.

Alan Bigelow, appearing for the accused, said the men had been drinking and were under the mistaken impression the officer was "trying to start some kind of trouble."

Christmas Centenary

LERON, Ont. (CP) — Mrs. Mary Walsh and her relatives and friends plan to mark Christmas Eve specially this year. The day is also her 100th birthday. She has failing sight and hearing but remains jovial and has a keen memory.

Nuclear Subs to Spearhead Future Navies Says Janes

LONDON (Reuters) — Jane's Fighting Ships predicts that nuclear-powered submarines equipped with guided missiles may replace aircraft carriers as the spearhead of naval warfare within a few years.

The reference work on the world's navies, in its diamond jubilee edition, notes that "advances in nuclear propulsion enable submarines to remain submerged indefinitely and to launch guided missile attacks with far greater chances of survival than surface ships, including aircraft carriers."

Jane's estimates the Russian submarine fleet at more than 475 units, of which a large percentage are new long-range boats, and that Russia will commission 75 to 85 submarines each year for the next two years.

Russian secrecy limits the Soviet navy section. But Jane's says that since the war, Russia has built more cruisers and destroyers than the rest of the world. But the emphasis now was shifting from 15,000-ton cruisers with a speed of 35 knots to destroyers of 38 knots.

FRIDAY MEETINGS

Lions: 12 noon, Empress Hotel. Canon George Biddle will give "A Christmas Message."

Cymrodorian Society: 8 p.m. Business and Professional Women's Club, 904 Government Street.

The army-navy party detected the hidden crevasses with an electronic "feeler" extending in front of a Weasel, a small track-laying vehicle.

Civil Aviation Boom in Making

10-Year Program May Cost $1 Billion, Says Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — A huge expansion program for Canadian civilian aviation over the next 10 years is in the planning stage at transport department headquarters. Officials say its cost will be between $500,000,000 and $1,000,000,000 to be spent on a new airport near Halifax.

It contemplates many new airports, large-scale expansion of existing airport facilities to accommodate bigger and faster planes and various new aids to aerial navigation at airfields and on the airlines.

New fields will be sprung up all over the country, according to the planners, aviation mushrooms. A three-volume private projection of Canada's flying future in the hands of Transport Minister Hees indicates that much of this will be in the North as development takes place there.

Other hefty expenditures—not specified—are called for at the airports at Gander, Nfld., Winnipeg and Vancouver, a considerable amount of it designed to make their runways suitable for big 120-passenger jets which Trans-Canada Air Lines expects to be putting into operation about 1960-61.

At the moment, the department has well in hand what it calls "stage one"—that is, providing 7,000-foot runways for the use of TCA's Viscount turbo-prop planes and the Vanguard which the publicly-owned transcontinental line will be receiving soon.

Another development being projected over the next few years is the navigational device known as the visual omni-range system, which gives airport control towers a close watch on planes flying the standard air lanes. It has not yet been extended to the Rockies, and now committed for added terminal building facilities.

Between $10,000,000 and $15,000,000 is to be spent on new or extended runways and terminal buildings.

At Dorval near Montreal, planes flying the standard air lanes. It has not yet been extended to the Rockies, and now committed for added terminal building facilities.

CHIEF NATO DECISIONS

- Invites Russia to participate in foreign ministers' conference on disarmament.
- Accepts U.S. offer for arming Western Europe with ballistic missiles and nuclear warheads.
- Agrees to individual nations making known their final decision on bases at foreign ministers' parley in March.
- Supports independence of Middle East countries.
- Adopts Diefenbaker motion on considering plight of subjugated people in Communist countries striving for freedom.

British Govt. Rejects Ban On Missiles

LONDON (UP)—The British government today emphasized its support of the U.S. plan to base nuclear missiles in Europe by rejecting a Socialist request for a ban on such bases in Britain.

Home Secretary R. A. Butler said in the House of Commons the government had no intention of asking the United States to cancel plans to station intermediate range ballistic missiles (IRBMs) on British soil.

The suggestion by leftwing Laborite Konni Zilliacus that such bases be banned was flatly refused.

'Should Make War Less Likely—
Peace More Sure'
—Eisenhower's view of NATO decisions.

NATO PARLEY ENDS

Peace Talk With Russia Key Decision

PARIS (CP)—The 15-power Atlantic Treaty summit conference today offered Moscow a foreign ministers' meeting on disarmament and formally accepted the United States' offer of ballistic missiles and nuclear warheads for arming Western Europe.

The heads of government said the Allies cannot accept the Soviet idea that Russia should have a monopoly on nuclear weapons and missiles in Europe pending disarmament.

These key decisions, announced in a 3,500-word communiqué, wound up NATO's four-day conference.

President Eisenhower said the results "should make war less likely, peace more sure."

The final communiqué worked out in a session of almost three hours put the blame on Russia for the need to bring West Europe's defences into the age of push-button warfare.

"To this end NATO had decided to establish stocks of nuclear warheads, which will be readily available for the defence of the alliance in case of need," the communiqué said.

"In view of the present Soviet policies in the field of new weapons the council has also decided that intermediate-range ballistic missiles will have to be put at the disposal of the new supreme Allied commander Europe."

Russ Boycott Tactics Deplored

The NATO chiefs said they regret and deplore Russia's tactics of boycotting a newly-created 25-country UN commission on disarmament. They called on Russia to resume cooperation with the United Nations in this field, but offered a foreign ministers meeting to resolve the deadlock.

The summit leaders reminded the Russians that at the Geneva summit conference in 1955 they took a solemn commitment that "the reunification of Germany by means of free elections shall be carried out in conformity with the national interests of the German people and the interests of European security."

"Should the Soviet government refuse to participate in the work of the new disarmament commission, we would welcome

Successful Launching For Air Force Missile

CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The U.S. Air Force successfully launched its Thor intermediate range ballistic missile today.

The huge, snow-white missile left its launching stand at 2:57 p.m. EST (11:58 p.m. PST) in a flash of orange light.

It climbed straight upward for several seconds, then eased gently over into a high-climbing arc toward the southeast.

A minute after takeoff, the weapon began to leave a vapor trail. Its course could be easily seen in the clear sky.

The flame of the rocket was visible for more than two minutes.

Even after the fire disappeared, the rocket's course

PRAYER FOR TODAY

O God of the living and of the dead, this day we remember our loved ones, the saints and heroes and the men and women known and unknown, who fought and died for freedom's cause. Help us to long remember so that what has been won by life sacrificed may be preserved by life dedicated and willing to be sacrificed. Help us to guard our freedom and to keep our liberty and never to surrender either; in Christ's name. Amen.

Miraculous Escapes Cut Toll Of Devastating U.S. Tornadoes

MURPHYSBORO, Ill.—A vast cleanup job got under way today in nearly a score of towns in southern Illinois and eastern Missouri which were struck Wednesday by destructive, death-dealing tornadoes.

The violent weather killed at least 10 persons, injured more than 100 others and caused property damage unofficially estimated in the millions of dollars. Nine of the fatalities were reported in this southern Illinois area and another in eastern Missouri.

Although destruction was greatest in Mount Vernon, Ill., which counted 75 to 100 homes destroyed or badly damaged, the twisters created the worst human misery in Murphysboro, a town of 9,000.

Here eight persons died and at least 35 were taken to hospital. Thirty homes were destroyed — 15 by fires which followed the tornado.

Four of the Murphysboro fatalities occurred in one family. Mrs. Martha Butcher and three of her children were hurled from their home and tossed into a nearby field. All were killed. Unexplainably, the tornado spared lives where it seemed that death should have been a certainty.

Mrs. D. C. McRoy, home with her two children, dived for the floor with her two children as the roaring storm descended. A rug was whipped over them. When they got to their feet, all that was left of the house was the floor.

At another home, a Girl Scout troop was holding a basement meeting. The house blew away over their heads but none of the girls suffered even a scratch.

Quite a switch, from high court law to high lead loggin'.
Well, in N.A.T.O. meetin' didn't git a lot done, but at least they didn't fight. That's somethin' these days.

Chief Justice Gordon Sloan

Will Quit Bench; Province Launches New Woods Policy

By PETER MURRAY

Chief Justice Gordon Sloan has accepted an appointment as adviser to the provincial government on forestry matters.

He will resign as Chief Justice of British Columbia to take the newly-created position Jan. 1. The appointment is for 10 years, at an annual salary of $50,000.

Announcement was made today by Premier Bennett, who described it as one of the most important he had ever made.

Under terms of an order-in-council passed at a special cabinet meeting today, Chief Justice Sloan will have wide powers.

Although the cabinet will make the final decisions on his recommendations, he will be in a sense the "czar" of the B.C. forest industry.

Empowered to Establish Tribunals

He is empowered to set up a public tribunal to hear representations from interested groups on forestry matters, and advise upon granting of timber rights.

The chief justice will also advise the government on the issuing of forest management licences, the most controversial aspect of present government forest policy.

Premier Bennett described the adviser's role this way:

"It is essentially a continuing commission or tribunal similar in its scope and function to the Canadian Board of Transport Commissioners or the American Federal Power Commission."

Chief Justice Sloan is recognized as the top authority on forestry in the province.

He first made a thorough study of the industry and its problems in 1945, and his report after that inquiry served as the basis for present forest management legislation.

In September, the chief justice released a second, 900-page report following a 2½-year inquiry.

He recommended that report that the government create a permanent advisory commission on forestry.

Chief Justice Sloan also said the government should develop a clearly defined forest policy.

SLOAN GIVEN HIGHEST-PAID B.C. OFFICE

His annual salary of $50,000 compares with $20,000 paid Premier Bennett and $17,500 for provincial cabinet ministers.

T-BRICKS FOR KOREA

Children Sacrifice Piggy Bank Savings

Two Victoria youngsters gave up their Christmas shopping money, piggy bank and all, in order to contribute to The "T-Bricks for Korea" fund.

The fund is sponsored by The Times to assist the Unitarian Services Committee in building a tuberculosis outpatients' pavilion at Han No Hospital in Seoul. A brick costs 10 cents, and The Times hopes to raise $12,000 for the 120,000 bricks required to build the hospital extension.

The young Victorians, who want to be known only as "Dick and Jane," have been putting coins aside for months to build up a Christmas shopping fund.

Temporary receipts will be given here, and permanent receipts will be issued by the Unitarian Services Committee. Contributions are deductible for income tax purposes.

SOMMERS' CASE RULING MONDAY

VANCOUVER (CP)—Magistrate Oscar Orr will decide Monday whether defence lawyers in the Sommers conspiracy case can see part of a secret RCMP report.

The magistrate delayed his decision after defence lawyers and city prosecutor Stewart McMoran clashed over the prosecutor's refusal to hand over the report made by former RCMP Inspector W. J. Butler.

Russ Fire Premier

LONDON (UP)—The premier of the Russian Republic has been demoted and replaced by his deputy, Moscow radio said tonight. The broadcast, heard here, said Premier Mikhail Yasnoff had been demoted to deputy premier of the Russian Republic—largest of the Soviet Union's constituent republics.

Earlier this morning, speakers for both sides in the dispute said "no further talks are scheduled at the moment."

Some 6,000 men, including 1,600 on Vancouver Island, have been picketing nine pulp plants since Nov. 14.

Both sides broke silence on the secret talks after the deadlock was reached Wednesday, blaming each other for the stalemate.

"It became evident that the unions wouldn't be prepared to forest industry, particularly since 1948 when forest management policies were first introduced.

Mr. Bennett said the province was fortunate in securing the services of Chief Justice Sloan in the new role.

"The government is highly appreciative of the services that have been rendered by the chief justice to this province over the years," the premier said.

"The government appreciates his sense of duty and responsibility in retiring from one of the highest positions in the province to take what we consider to be an equal, if not more important position, to serve the forest workers and industry of the province."

(Two industry spokesmen in Vancouver declined comment until they had studied the announcement. Others could not be reached for comment immediately.)

Appointment of a new chief justice to succeed Chief Justice Sloan will be made by the federal government.

Reputation As Trouble-Shooter

Chief Justice Sloan has also earned a reputation as the province's number one trouble-shooter.

He has been called upon on innumerable occasions to mediate disputes between industry and labor and to find solutions to problems in the provincial economy.

His field has included workers' compensation, fisheries, forestry and other industries.

Three years ago he was appointed by the federal government to mediate a railway-union contract dispute involving 145,000 non-operating employees across the country.

At present he is sitting as a one-man board of reference on the question of bargaining rights for provincial civil servants.

In his latest forestry report, Chief Justice Sloan recommended that the government set up three regional boards on forestry matters, which would forward recommendations to a provincial advisory council.

Chief Justice Sloan said the council should have a permanent salaried chairman at its head, appointed by the government for not less than five years.

consider anything, unless it called for more than the conciliation board recommendation" of a 7½ per cent wage increase, Mr. Blair said.

JUST HOLDING OUT

"We don't think they wanted a settlement," retorted John Sherman, vice-president of the pulp and sulphite union. "All we can do now is to hold out."

He declared the union's "modifications" of its 12 per cent increase were not considered by management.

Mr. Blair said the companies were willing to go along with a 7½ per cent raise until June 30, 1958, and then sit down again and negotiate wages for a further 12 months.

Because of conditions in the industry a definite commitment beyond June 30 was not possible at the present time, he said.

"No one can predict now what the situation will be then. But by July 1 everyone should know what the outlook is," he said.

NO OTHER PROPOSAL

The unions were asked for any other proposal they had regarding wages beyond June 30, he said, "but they didn't see their way clear to making any suggestions."

Mr. Sherman said management's account of the negotiations were "twisted."

He said management proposed to date any new contract at Jan. 1, 1958.

Mr. Blair said that was true but management had said it was prepared to discuss the question of retroactive pay.

"Information at our disposal and the actions of these employees within the last three days, now lead us to the inevitable conclusion that there is much more to this strike than simply a fight for wages and conditions," a union statement said Wednesday. "It has become a fight for our very existence."

Only point receiving agreement during this week's talks was a management offer of three weeks' vacation for workers with 10 years' service. The conciliation board had recommended a graduated scale that would have led to three weeks after 15 years' service.

Coast Shipping Problem Studied

OTTAWA (CP) — Transport Minister Hees said today his department is negotiating with West Coast shipping companies for provision of passenger service to communities along the British Columbia coast.

This service has been provided by Union Steamships Company of Vancouver but Mr. Hees said continuation of the $562,000 annual federal subsidy to the company would not be justified.

Replying in the Commons to George Hahn (SC, New Westminster) and Thomas Barnett (CCF, Comox-Alberni), Mr. Hees said the situation has been under study for some time as a result of complaints from unsubsidized shipping companies in competition with Union Steamships, which had requested an increased subsidy.

Mr. Hees said alternative means to provide shipping service to B.C. coastal communities is being sought and a solution is expected soon.

Union Steamships announced Wednesday it will discontinue its passenger service Jan. 2 because of "increasing losses." The cargo service would be maintained.

at meeting at foreign ministers' level to resolve the deadlock.

Other major points in the final communiqué:

1. While committed to a common defence NATO nations stand ready to discuss any reasonable proposal" to ease world tensions and promote peace and progress.

2. Communist rulers have given "clear warning" of determination to dominate the world by subversion or force. The Atlantic Allies "will never yield to such a threat."

3. There is a growing desire for freedom in the Communist countries and "if the free nations are steadfast, the totalitarian menace that now confronts them will eventually recede."

4. Soviet leaders have made it clear that the most modern and destructive weapons of all kinds are being introduced as a means of warfare," the communiqué said.

5. The paragraph on subjugated peoples was put in the communiqué at the request of Canadian Prime Minister Diefenbaker, who said "it is important that recognition be given to the efforts of people in the Communist countries to change their status by force of political evolution."

6. Since Russia's aims are worldwide, the "free world" must organize its resources on the same basis, and NATO must take account of developments outside its own European-North America area.

7. The NATO governments support the independence and sovereignty of Middle Eastern countries and consider that "the stability of this important area is vital to world peace."

8. The Atlantic Allies are ready to co-operate "with the countries and peoples of Africa" and invites their co-operation with the western world.

Chinese, Here 61 Years, Asks for Citizenship Papers

An 83-year-old Chinese who came to Victoria from Hong Kong 61 years ago, has just applied for Canadian citizenship.

His reason: "I like Canada — I want to belong to her."

That was all Lum Duk, a retired vegetable farmer of 25 Fisgard, would say concerning the application he made at Victoria Courthouse.

He arrived here in 1896 aboard the former Canadian Pacific liner Empress of China and since then has made three return trips to Hong Kong to visit his family.

A little man with a youthful complexion, Mr. Lum Duk speaks no English and questions put to him were interpreted by Rev. C. Y. Chow, minister at the Chinese United Church on Fisgard, and Chinese neighbors living in an apartment block above the church.

His answers were cryptic. To what did he attribute his good health?

"No smoke, no drink . . . read Bible every day." (Here Mr. Lum Duk pointed to a huge Bible translated into Chinese characters which stood on a table by his bedside.)

What was Victoria like when he first arrived?

"No Hudson's Bay . . . no cars, no buses, small houses . . . not many people."

Would he like to return to Hong Kong?

"Yes, go back some time to see grandchild and two great-grandchildren. My son, Guy Man, killed in Second World War, fighting with Chinese Army against Japanese. Very good soldier."

A Chinese friend accompanied him when he went to the courthouse to seek Canadian citizenship and he gave interpreted answers to questions put to him by Judge J. B. Clearhue.

Twenty-two other Victoria residents born abroad have also applied for Canadian citizenship. They are:

Alina Chalecki, Cornelius De Jong, Emil Irvin Dery, Margaret Ruth Dunlop, Gerhard Furstenau, Johann Furstenau, John Fitterer, Werner Paul Glueck, Karl Heinz Hartman, Elfriede Anna Hartmann.

Friedrich Johan Lackner, Hermine Lackner, Thorvald Vagn Melbye, Jan Spoor, Klemmeke Keith Spoor, Cornelius Ken Spoor, Chang Yuen Hing, Loo Wai Yun, Mah Bing Gong, Mah Gim Choy, Su Men Lai and Chang Poon.

He was converted to the Christian faith "many, many years ago" and he attends church regularly. He retired from vegetable farming seven years ago.

A widower, Mr. Lum Duk lives in a small bed-sitting room on the third floor of the United Church apartments and takes regular walks around the city.

B.C. 'Name' Stars To Launch 1958

Hour-Long TV Program By Hollywood Celebrities

Plans for an ambitious, hour-long television show on New Year's Day to launch B.C.'s Centennial celebrations were announced today by L. J. Wallace, chairman of the B.C. committee.

Stars of the show will be Yvonne de Carlo, Alan Young, Ed McCurdy, Fletcher Markle, Mercedes McCambridge and Mr. Magoo, he told a meeting of the Optimist club at the Pacific Club.

Mr. Wallace said all stars participating are originally from British Columbia and are coming to Vancouver to donate their talents to give the Centennial year a spectacular send-off.

CARRIED "LIVE"

The production is being arranged by the B.C. Centennial Committee in co-operation with the CBC, will be carried live by CBU, Vancouver, and CHEK-TV, Victoria, and will be made available to all television stations in Canada for delayed broadcasting.

It will be seen live from 9 to 10 p.m. New Year's Day.

The telecast will be treated as the "premiere" for all centennial shows, in the tradition established for premieres in Hollywood, New York and London.

North Coast Not Isolated, Says Busman

An alternative travel service operating since August is available to residents of the north end of Vancouver Island, G. Conway Parrott, general manager of Vancouver Island Coach Lines, said today.

Union Steamships Ltd. has announced it will end its subsidized passenger service along the B.C. coast Jan. 2. It operates as far north as Prince Rupert.

"We can offer 12-hour service between Alert Bay and Vancouver," Mr. Parrott said.

The Gulf Ranger, a converted Johnson Strait Enterprises Ltd., makes a round trip three days a week from Alert Bay, on Cormorant Island, to Kelsey Bay, where it connects with Vancouver Island Coach Lines buses.

The Gulf Ranger calls at Port McNeill, Sointula, Englewood, Telegraph Cove, Port Neville, and Minstrel Island. It has accommodation for 40 passengers.

"We give through ticketing from any of these points to Vancouver and return," Mr. Parrott said. "Later a fast express service will be added."

Hit-and-Run Suspect Held After Crash

Victoria police caught a suspected hit-and-run driver when he wrecked his car at the roundabout where a car caused about $300 total damage.

Meantime police attended at the roundabout where a car caused more than $150 total damage to car and fountain circle when it failed to make a right turn from Hillside.

Purse-Snatcher Pleads Guilty In City Court

A man held for vagrancy in city jail was picked from a police lineup as a purse snatcher and pleaded guilty in city court today.

The vagrancy charge against John Lewis Vaughan, no fixed address was withdrawn, and he was remanded to Tuesday for a probation report on the theft charge.

Police said Vaughan was the man who took a purse containing $20 and personal papers from Alice Pennington as she walked on Pandora Nov. 23.

Washington Clear to Negotiate New Sidney Wharf

The Washington State Toll Bridge Authority at Olympia today authorized its staff to negotiate an agreement with the British Columbia government for construction of a new ferry terminal at Sidney, for use of Washington State Ferries on the Anacortes-Sidney summer run.

TBA secretary Darrell Hedges said the provincial government has tentatively agreed to construct a new terminal providing the Washington State TBA will lease it at a rate that will amortize the investment.

With NORMAN CRIBBENS

Three Victoria school teachers—Mary Carr Wright, Margaret Steer and Myrtle Lane—are getting bouquets from far and wide over their newly-published history of British Columbia, "Land of Shining Mountains."

They have had letters from readers all across Canada and a few from the United States as well.

Mrs. Irene Rollin, a Michigan teacher, wrote that she had read passages from the book to her class and "the children loved it."

"My six-year-old grandson seems to like it, too," Mrs. Carr Wright said. "This is encouraging as we tried to produce a book that would

Maybe B.C. could do with a little more advertising abroad. Today I received a Christmas card from Britain addressed to 721 Linden Avenue, British Columbia.

A postal worker in Vancouver rose to the occasion by scribbling "Try Victoria" across the envelope.

In the States, it seems, we are getting lots of publicity. Returning from California recently, city salesmen Harry Mollison counted 15 "Follow the Birds to Victoria" signs on Highways 99 and 101.

"It made me feel good," he said, "and it shows our publicity bureau is on the job."

TOPICS OF THE DAY

A thief who broke into a bakery truck parked near South Park School Wednesday night really took the cake.

Christmas cake, at that—and shortbread, and buns — to a total value of $25.

The loss was reported to city police by Family Bread driver Douglas Bradbury, 647 Niagara, at 10:10 p.m.

General Teamsters' Union, Local 885, was certified Wednesday by the Canada Labor Relations Board as bargaining agent for 23 workers employed here by Hill the Mover (Canada) Ltd.

A party was held today for 26 pupils in the school for retarded children at Spring Ridge. Sponsoring group is Greater Victoria Association for Retarded Children. Registered Nurses' Association made a cash contribution and school board official Dennis Brown arranged the showing of films. The school is operated by the GVAC and is financed by special provincial grants.

A report to Greater Victoria Water Board Wednesday showed present value of present water district equipment to be $168,900. This includes 18 trucks, one car, tractors, cranes, logging archees, compressors and other heavy items of a purchase value of $270,675. Besides that, the GVWB rents trucks, bulldozers and shovels to the extent of $127,000 annually. The board also reported that it is extending its equipment policies to extend its equipment policies with one broker. It was suggested the appointment of a broker be left to the Victoria Real Estate Board.

Ronald Klatt, 3350 Glasgow, was fined $35 and his driver's licence was suspended in city police court today on a charge of careless driving.

Last city council meeting of 1957 will be held Dec. 30. Mayor Percy Scurrah announced today. Final reading will be given to the new pound by-law which turns operation of the pound over to the SPCA. Also council is required by the Municipal Act, to carry out whatever adjustments are necessary in the '57 budget to ensure against deficits in any department.

Mr. Justice Clyne spoke of Miss Logan as "a thoroughly competent and reliable witness."

Mr. Justice Clyne said the Logan family were driving north on the Island Highway when the accident happened.

It was snowing heavily, visibility was reduced and the centre line was obscured.

Mr. Logan was driving at about 25 miles an hour following a car driven by Walter Mackie. Two collisions followed—the first between Mackie's car and a truck driven in the opposite direction by William Weeks, and the second between Weeks' truck and the Logan's car.

Mr. Logan's car was damaged beyond repair and he and his wife and daughter all sustained severe injuries.

But there will not be the concentrated rush off Vancouver Island as there is when the holiday falls at the beginning or end of a week.

A TCA spokesman said: "We expect we will carry as many people as last year, but they will be spread out over a longer period."

Extra flights to Vancouver and Seattle will be scheduled as needed. At the present time, there is still space available on all days, with heaviest bookings for Dec. 24.

The CPR also reported Dec. 24 as the busiest day for the Victoria-Vancouver steamer, but some space is still available.

Space to Vancouver via

Nanaimo is also available on both CPR and Black Ball lines.

Vancouver Island Coach Lines will provide extra coaches when necessary on all up-Island runs, including the through coaches, Victoria-Nanaimo-Vancouver.

Victoria Labor Council executive will consider a suggestion that it set up a revolving strike fund for assisting affiliated unions when they take strike action. The suggestion was made in a letter from Victoria Newspaper Guild read to the VLC Wednesday.

Further word on progress of negotiations between Woodward Stores Ltd. and the city of Victoria, regarding sale of City Hall, is expected at the first of next week. Mayor Percy Scurrah said until then all he could say was "negotiations are still underway."

A Christmas Festival of High-land dancing and piping will be presented by Adelaide Duncan at the Club Sirocco Saturday at 2 p.m.

Judges for the dancing events will be Mrs. Helen Somers, Mrs. Marion Dewar, and Mrs. Lillian Wood. Piping events judge will be Archie Dewar.

Aggregate trophies for the events have been donated by Mrs. Edward Conrad, Miss Heather Duncan, Tom Hamilton, Alex Johnstone, and John Grant.

Official pipers will be Ray Gandy and Jamie Troy.

Edro Signori of the department of philosophy and psychology, University of British Columbia, addresses the Victoria University Extension Association.

He speaks at 8:15 p.m. on psychology and social problems.

The public is welcome to the lectures in the auditorium at Victoria College.

LOVELY CHRISTMAS MUSIC

'Carols in Candlelight' At First United Church

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON lit atmosphere of First United Church.

Some of the loveliest music that has ever sprung from the fountainhead of faith embodied in the Nativity of Christ, was played and sung Wednesday night in the dedicated, candlelight atmosphere of First United Church.

It was music that represented Christian feeling among many different peoples — German, English, Spanish, Italian, Indian, Negro.

The program which was accompanied by Malcolm Hamilton at the organ was finely balanced and contained striking contrasts in expression of a single theme.

Glory and grandeur of Handel's "Comfort Ye" and the "Glory of the Lord," "He Shall Feed His Flock," and "For Unto Us a Child Is Born," sung by soloists Paul Wharf and Carol Menzies and the choir, were poised for instance against the humble, homespun charm of an Appalachian carol sung by baritone David Mar.

The program which was accompanied by Malcolm Hamilton at the organ was finely balanced and contained striking contrasts in expression of a single theme.

He said Prime Minister Dieffenbaker and other Progressive Conservatives promised such legislation in last spring's election campaign.

The present government bill, introduced Saturday, "completely ignores the party principle," he said.

"... The government must withdraw the bill and substitute a measure ensuring justice..."

He told James G. Gardiner, former Liberal agriculture minister, that any government policy announcement would be made in due course in the Commons, and not as a result of confirming or denying "speculative reports in the newspapers."

The report said the government plans to adopt a 10-year period on which to base its policy supports.

The present bill provides an assured price floor for nine commodities in any year at 80 per cent of average prices in the preceding three years. On any commodity — including the nine — the government would establish annual support prices as a percentage of the three-year average.

REFUSAL TO CONFIRM

Meanwhile in the Commons, Agriculture Minister Harkness, despite persistent Opposition queries, would not confirm or deny a report that the bill will be amended.

Nuclear Subs to Spearhead Future Navies Says Janes

LONDON (Reuters) — Jane's Fighting Ships predicts that nuclear-powered submarines equipped with guided missiles may replace aircraft carriers as the spearhead of naval war within a few years.

The reference work on the world's navies, in its diamond jubilee edition, notes that "advances in nuclear propulsion enable submarines to remain submerged indefinitely and to launch guided missile attacks with far greater chances of survival than surface ships, including aircraft carriers."

Jane's estimates the Russian submarine fleet at more than 475 units, of which a large percentage are new long-range boats, and that Russia will commission 75 to 85 submarines each year for the next two years.

Hoffmeister Retires as Head Of Lumber Firm

VANCOUVER — Retirement of B. M. Hoffmeister, as chairman of the board of Macmillan Bloedel Limited, was announced today by R. M. Shaw, president of the company.

Mr. Shaw made the following statement:

"Over a lengthy period of years, broken only by war services in which he won notable distinction, Bert Hoffmeister served this organization in executive positions of rising responsibility.

Civil Aviation Boom in Making

10-Year Program May Cost $1 Billion, Says Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — A huge expansion program for Canadian civilian aviation over the next 10 years is in the planning stage at transport department headquarters.

Officials say its cost will be between $500,000,000 and $1,000,000,000 if it is accepted by Parliament over the years.

It contemplates many new airports, large-scale expansion of existing airport facilities to accommodate bigger and faster planes and various new aids to aerial navigation at airfields and on the airlines.

New fields will be springing up all over the country, according to the planners, as aviation mushrooms. A three-volume private projection of Canada's flying future in the hands of Transport Minister Hees indicates that much of this will be in the North as development takes place there.

EASE TRAFFIC PRESSURE

But many of the more than two dozen projected new airports will be along the existing flyways, some of them secondary airports to drain off excess traffic from big fields such as Malton near Toronto.

For Malton, $25,000,000 program is contemplated over the next 10 years for new or extended runways and terminal buildings.

At Dorval near Montreal, $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 may be spent including $8,000,000 now committed for added terminal buildings.

Atomic Station In Full Swing

surged from the world's first full-scale completely commercial nuclear power station today under the watchful eye of an electric company employee.

Jack Waugaman, 37, was the "man of the hour" when the historical $10,000,000 plant produced its first electricity for homes, shops and factories from splitting uranium atoms.

Britain has had a nuclear power plant in operation for some years, but it is a government-owned operation and the plant's main purpose is production of plutonium.

Waugaman closed the switch on an intricate control panel that sent power flowing from the station's turbine generator into Duquesne Light Company's regular system Wednesday morning.

GRADUAL INCREASE

When Waugaman first touched the control switch at 12:39 a.m. Wednesday, only 5,000 kilowatts of electricity was put into Duquesne Light's system.

During the day this was stepped up to 20,000 KW and a company spokesman said full operating capacity of 60,000 KW is to be reached in a few days.

Sixty thousand kilowatts is sufficient to supply the residential needs of a community of 250,000.

52 Safe in Airliner Mishap

PORTLAND (AP)—With smoke trailing from an engine, a Northwest Orient Airlines DC-7 landed safely at Portland International Airport today. It carried 47 passengers and a crew of five.

After the plane landed, it taxied to a hangar where waiting emergency crews extinguished the blaze.

Inventor of Lethal Drug Jailed

PARIS (AP)—The maximum penalty of two years in prison and a 1,000,000-franc fine ($2,380) was imposed today on the inventor of a drug that killed 102 persons and crippled 187 more. The drug, stalinon, was advertised as a cure for boils.

In addition to sentencing the inventor, pharmacist Georges Feuillet, the Criminal Court also levied a 100,000-franc fine ($240) against the manufacturer, Henri Genet.

Truck-Plunge Victim Identified

PRINCETON, B.C. (CP)—Police today identified a truck driver killed early Wednesday when his vehicle plunged 500 feet down a mountainside as Arthur Gerry Curtis of Vancouver.

RCMP said the accident occurred near Sunday summit on the Hope-Princeton Highway, 23 miles west of here.

Shots Fired, 3 Held in Chase

IOWA CITY, Iowa (UP)—Three Canadians were held for investigation today following a bullet-punctured 60-mile chase which ended at a road block near here. The three were identified as Robert Adams, Vancouver, and Harold Franklin and Gordon Miller, both of Toronto.

TNT-Carrying Train Derailed

SUDBURY (CP)—A dynamite-laden car was among 12 Sudbury-to-Sault Ste. Marie CPR freight cars derailed today at McKerrow station, 42 miles west of here. No one was injured.

The car carrying dynamite was ripped open at one end and flung within 20 feet of nearby Highway No. 11. All other cars were carrying general merchandise.

Sabotage Suspected in Blast

PARIS (Reuters)—An explosion today blew a hole in the fuselage of a French airliner with 89 passengers aboard flying from Oran, Algeria, to Paris, an Air France spokesman reported.

None of the passengers was hurt, he added. The spokesman said sabotage was suspected.

John D. Happy
Of NATO Meet

(See Also Page 3)

LONDON (UP)—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker flew in from Paris today for a two-day visit on his way home from the NATO summit conference.

He arrived to be sworn in by Queen Elizabeth II Friday as a member of the privy council. He will fly home to Ottawa Saturday.

Commenting on the NATO meeting on his arrival at London airport, Mr. Diefenbaker said: "We have opened a door—we have made it clear we want to establish peace and that it cannot be established unless there is a large measure of disarmament both in conventional and nuclear weapons."

Mr. Diefenbaker said he was going home "much happier than I expected I would be when I arrived."

The prime minister said the question of the establishment of American rocket bases in Europe "must be a matter of compulsion but of decisions taken" is clear and distinct."

Successful Launching
For Air Force Missile

CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The U.S. Air Force successfully launched its Thor intermediate range ballistic missile today.

The huge, snow-white missile left its launching stand at 2:57 p.m. EST (11:59 p.m. PST) in a flash of orange light.

It climbed straight upward for several seconds, then eased gently over into a high-climbing arc toward the southeast.

A minute after takeoff, the weapon began to leave a vapor trail. Its course could easily be followed in the clear sky.

Peace Talk
With Russia
Key Decision

PARIS (CP)—The 15-power Atlantic Treaty summit conference today offered Moscow a foreign ministers' meeting on disarmament and formally accepted the United States' offer of ballistic missiles and nuclear warheads for arming Western Europe.

The heads of government said the Allies cannot accept the Soviet idea that Russia should have a monopoly on nuclear weapons and missiles in Europe pending disarmament.

These key decisions, announced in a 3,500-word communiqué, wound up NATO's four-day conference.

President Eisenhower said the results "should make war less likely, peace more sure."

The final communiqué worked out in a session of almost three hours put the blame on Russia for the need to bring West Europe's defences into the age of push-button warfare.

To this end NATO had decided to establish stocks of nuclear warheads, which will be readily available for the defence of the alliance in case of need," the communiqué said.

"In view of the present Soviet policies in the field of new weapons the council has also decided that intermediate-range Europe."

Russ Boycott Tactics Deployed

The NATO chiefs said they regret and deplore Russia's tactics of boycotting a newly-created 25-country UN commission on disarmament.

"We state our willingness to promote, preferably within the framework of the United Nations, any negotiations with the U.S.S.R. likely to lead to the implementation of the proposals recalled above long-standing Western proposals for disarmament."

"We are also prepared to examine any proposal, from whatever source for general or partial disarmament, and any proposal enabling agreement to be reached on the controlled reduction of armaments of all types."

"Should the Soviet government refuse to participate in the work of the new disarmament commission, we would welcome this."

Bennett Tackles
Pulp Strike Talk

Premier W. A. C. Bennett has stepped into the five-weeks-old pulp strike to keep negotiations going between the two sides.

The premier announced this morning that "discussions on the questions in the dispute are continuing now."

The announcement followed breakdown of talks between union and management officials Wednesday after two and a half days of negotiations in Vancouver at the premier's instigation.

Mr. Bennett said he met representatives from both sides Wednesday afternoon in Victoria at his own request.

He would not elaborate further but it was learned he met with M. J. Foley, chairman of the Pulp and Paper Industrial Relations Board which is negotiating for the seven companies, and H. E. Hansen, spokesman for the two unions on strike.

A union official said the new talks "are all in the premier's hands. He's arranging it and we don't know yet where or when the meeting will be held."

Strike U.S.

MURPHYSBORO, Ill. — A violent cleanup job got under way today in nearly a score of towns in southern Illinois and eastern Missouri which were struck Wednesday by destructive, death-dealing tornadoes.

The violent weather killed at least 10 persons, injured more than 100 others and caused property damage unofficially estimated in the millions of dollars.

Nine of the fatalities were reported in this southern Illinois area and another in eastern Missouri.

Although destruction was greatest in Mount Vernon, Ill., which counted 75 to 100 homes destroyed or badly damaged, the twisters created the worst human misery in Murphysboro, a town of 9,000.

Here eight persons died and at least 35 were taken to hospital. Thirty homes were destroyed—15 by fires which followed the tornado.

Four of the Murphysboro fatalities occurred in one family. Mrs. Martha Butcher and three

Government Sets
New Woods Policy

By PETER MURRAY

Chief Justice Gordon Sloan has accepted an appointment as adviser to the provincial government on forestry matters.

He will resign as Chief Justice of British Columbia to take the newly-created position Jan. 1.

The appointment is for 10 years, at an annual salary of $50,000.

Announcement was made today by Premier Bennett, who described it as one of the most important he had ever made.

Under terms of an order-in-council passed at a special cabinet meeting today, Chief Justice Sloan will have wide powers.

Although the cabinet will make the final decisions on his recommendations, he will be in a sense the "czar" of the B.C. forest industry.

Empowered to Establish Tribunals

Premier Bennett said the public tribunal to hear representations from interested groups on forestry matters, and advise upon granting of timber rights.

The chief justice will also advise the government on the issuing of forest management licences, the most controversial aspect of present government forest policy.

Premier Bennett described the adviser's role this way:

"It is essentially a continuing commission or tribunal, similar in its scope and function to the Canadian Board of Transport Commissioners or the American Federal Power Commission."

Chief Justice Sloan is recognized as the top authority on forestry in the province.

He first made a thorough study of the industry and its problems in 1945, and his report after that inquiry served as the basis for present forest management legislation.

In September, the chief justice released a second, 900-page report following a 2½-year inquiry.

He recommended in that report that the government create a permanent advisory commission on forestry.

Chief Justice Sloan also said the government should develop a clearly defined forest policy.

SLOAN GIVEN
HIGHEST-PAID
B.C. OFFICE

In his new position of forest adviser to the government, Chief Justice Sloan will become the top-paid public official in the province.

His annual salary of $50,000 compares with $20,000 paid Premier Bennett and $17,500 for provincial cabinet ministers.

Federal estimates for 1957 list the salary of the Chief Justice of British Columbia as $18,500.

CCF Leader Welcomes
Sloan's Appointment

CCF leader Robert Strachan today approved the appointment of Chief Justice Gordon Sloan as government forest adviser, but criticized the government's methods.

"We welcome a continual examination of the forest industry and its problems," the Opposition leader said, "but we must protest the devious method which the government has used to provide the machinery for such examination."

Mr. Strachan said the position of forest commissioner should be set up only under the Forest Act, not the Public Inquiries Act.

Under the Forest Act, the appointment would be the right of the legislature to decide.

Today's appointment actually was an extension of Chief Justice Sloan's previous position of royal commissioner on forestry.

Mr. Strachan said, however, that "if any man can do this job, Chief Justice Gordon Sloan is that man."

"The CCF hope that this appointment will help solve some of the injustices which have characterized the handling of the forests in the past."

Vancouver Stocks

VANCOUVER — The afternoon market was very quiet with little trading.

Fort St. John sold 100 at $3.95. Sunshine Lardeau traded 500 at 12.

The government also turned down another request by Zilliacus that U.S. bombers cease carrying nuclear bombs while regularly patrolling from bases in Britain.
